BEGGING WILL BE STOPPED BY POLICE ORDERS

Transients Who Need Help Instructed to Report at City Hall

BEGGING ON THE streets and at the homes in Santa Ana must stop according to placards posted by the local police department today throughout the city. These placards read: "By order of police department, no begging allowed in Santa Ana. It is hungry or needing help apply to police department, city hall."

These placards are the result of a plan worked out by the Citizens Unemployment Emergency committee whereby needy transients, or persons who have not established residence in the state, may receive free board and lodging in this city for a limited period without having to beg.

Commenting today on this new step in Santa Ana H. P. Rankin, chairman of the Citizens Committee declared that its purpose was two-fold, to relieve house-holders and merchants of the pest of beggars that has been steadily growing of late, and to make a constructive effort to care for deserving persons who, during the present depression, have no means of livelihood and are traveling from town to town seeking employment.

"The plan for caring for these visitors has been worked out through our office with the aid of Police Chief Howard and Captain R. D. Yuna of the Salvation Army and in conjunction with the state's program of establishing work camps," Rankin said today. "Caring for these drifters has been one of our most pressing and puzzling problems. Help in solving the problem was presented by the opening of the San Bernardino state work camp to men sent from Santa Ana. But these must be non-residents of California. With these out of our way we can help our entire citizens toward caring for our own citizens."

Explaining the new plan, Robert Speed, executive-secretary of the Citizens committee said, "The way it works is this: every visitor must call at the police station. There he will be directed to the Police Chief Howard and given an identification card which entitles him to three days' bed and board. Each day he will be required to do a small amount of work in return for his accommodations and during that period he is presumed to be seeking employment. The three days gone he must either go to the State's work camp, to which his transportation will be paid, or get out of Santa Ana. If found in town unemployed after his three days are up or if he elects to leave town rather than go to the work camp, he cannot return within thirty days, or he will be picked up as a vagrant and dealt with accordingly."

"At the work camps men will receive board, lodging and tobacco in exchange for four hours' work daily and it is expected that the camps will be maintained throughout the winter. But to gain admission to a camp each man must present a certificate of good health issued by the town sending him. All men from Santa Ana will be given free medical examination."

"We ask the citizens of Santa Ana at their homes, in stores, and on the streets to co-operate with us to make this plan a success," Police Chief Howard declared. "Do

MAYOR PORTER FROWNS ON LIQUOR, PETTING

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Mayor John C. Porter, who gained publicity through refusing to drink wine with other American mayors while on a visit to France, took official notice today of the campaign of a Los Angeles group to discourage drinking, immodest love making, indecent dress and excessive cigarette smoking among the youth of this city.

He named a committee to meet with the executive council of the Los Angeles junior chapter, Florence Nightingale Institute of Honorables Friday night preceding a dance given by the organization.

The organization made public a young people's code frowning on petting, use of liquor and smoking.

HIRAM JOHNSON BEGINS WAR ON MORATORIUM

Resolution Called for Investigation of International Banking

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The Johnson resolution proposing an inquiry into international banking operations in connection with the Hoover debt moratorium was ordered favorably reported to the senate late today by the committee on audit and control.

The action assures consideration of the resolution in the senate tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The Hoover moratorium dispute broke out in the senate today with introduction by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, of a resolution which would authorize an investigation of international banking operations in the United States.

The resolution took some Republican leaders by surprise. It immediately indicated division in the party on the moratorium proposition. Johnson said he wanted quick action on the resolution because it is "essential to legislation soon to come before us."

Johnson hopes that with the investigation pending he can persuade the senate to delay action on the moratorium. Delay would be tantamount to rejection because the Hoover plan must be in effect by December 15 to relieve debtor nations of payments due on that day. The investigation would be by the finance committee.

The resolution would authorize the committee to determine among other things whether any American bankers have acted as fiscal agents for any foreign governments and it would reveal profits and methods involved in distributing foreign issues throughout the United States. Johnson contemplates investigation of Latin American as well as European issues.

Johnson and several other senators have said that the moratorium on government debts was designed to strengthen non-governmental foreign issues which has been sold in the United States.

Bear Steaks, 18 Years Old, Available Soon

GALESBURG, Ill., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Eighteen-year-old bear steaks, locally raised, soon will be available here.

The steaks now are "on the hoof" at Lincoln Municipal park where two elderly bruins have yawned and scratched themselves for years in their concrete quarters.

When Galesburg aldermen learned the pair was becoming short tempered, harbored fleas and had a monthly board bill of $35, they voted to sell them to a butcher. No other party wanted them.

Prices And Wages Cut By Decree

Drastic Steps Taken Today to Avert Violence and Possible Bloodshed

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Mass meetings were banned in Germany from today to January 3 to avoid violence and possible bloodshed resulting from the latest and most drastic of the government's emergency decrees.

The decree, the fourth issued by President Paul von Hindenburg, affected the country's social and economic life to a greater extent than the three previous emergency measures. It lowered prices, wages, rents, and interest rates; it created a "price dictatorship" which established a heavy levy against property of Germans who left the country to dodge taxes; and it warned Fascists and other political organizations that the government will employ every means to maintain constitutional order.

The decree had three general aims: To restore equilibrium to the budget, to lower production costs with the view of increasing exports, and protecting currency, and to maintain the workers' standard of living.

The government realized such restrictions would strengthen the cause of the Fascists and Communists and might lead to further clashes. Mass meetings therefore were prohibited.

The decree's prohibition of political party uniforms affected the Fascists and Communists less than other organizations such as the Republican Reichsbanner and the Conservative Steel Helmets. The former organizations already are prohibited from wearing uniforms in many sections of Germany.

The government realized such restrictions would strengthen the cause of the Fascists and Communists and might lead to further clashes. Mass meetings therefore were prohibited.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

OSAKA, Japan, Dec. 9.—(To the Editor of The Register:)

Flying from Japan to Manchuria. Every man, woman and Democrat in world have seen pictures of Japan's famous mountain peak with snow on the top, Mount Fujiyama, but think of flying around him. We come by this afternoon and what a beautiful country this is to fly over. I didn't know Japan was so mountainous. Had old Gibbons rubbing for a landing field, but there wasn't any. This is just one of the villages of Japan. It only has two million. The papers here tonight predict a fight at Chinchow.

Rich and Poor Alike Must Face Additional Burden, Hoover, Mellon Say

DOUBLE TAX PAYERS

Proposal Calls for Program To Go Into Effect on Jan. 1 and End in 1934

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The administration laid before congress today the most rigorous peace-time tax increase program in history—a program to raise by new taxes nearly a billion dollars a year.

Practically no one, rich or poor, would escape.

President Hoover and Secretary of Treasury Mellon joined fervently in an appeal to the country to face this additional burden courageously as a necessary sacrifice, imposed by the depression.

The administration plan calls for doubling the number of income-taxpayers.

It would levy special taxes on checks, telephone calls, telegraph messages, automobiles, radios, amusements down to the humblest motion picture show, and higher rates on postage, cigarettes and corporations.

The administration hopes to raise $920,000,000 a year by new taxes.

It proposed to begin them January 1 if possible and end them July 1, 1934.

Secretary Mellon forecast business improvement for 1932, but emphasized that depression meantime is causing the government to run behind billions of dollars making emergency measures necessary.

"We cannot maintain public confidence nor stability in the federal government without undertaking some temporary tax increases," said President Hoover in his budget message.

Mellon, at the same time, laid down the detailed program in his annual report to congress.

The administration plan, based roughly on the 1924 tax law, recommends these taxes:

Miscellaneous Taxes
Checks and drafts—2 cent stamp tax on each.
Telephone, telegraph, cable and radio messages—5 cents on charges between 14 cents and 50 cents; 10 on charges in excess of 50 cents.
Admissions—Extension of present 10 per cent tax by reducing present exemption from $3 to 19 cents.
Radio and phonograph equipment and accessories—5 per cent on manufacturers' sales.
Automobiles—Passenger cars, 8 per cent; trucks, 3 per cent; accessories, 2 1/2 per cent; on manufacturers' sales.
Increase of one-sixth on cigarettes and tobacco products except cigars.
Increase of one cent in existing stamp tax on sales of transfers of capital stock.
Conveyances of realty—50 cents on each $500 of value in excess of $100.
Individual Income Tax
Normal rates—First $4000, 2 per cent, now 1 1/2 per cent; next 4000, 4 per cent, now 3 per cent; re-

CLEARING SKIES today followed the heaviest rain of the season which, during the past 24 hours, has added an average of one and one-half inches to the total rainfall of the year to date in all sections of the county. This year's seasonal total, through the latest storm was brought up to a figure almost double that of last year.

Rainfall for the past 24 hours in Santa Ana totaled 1.60 inch, bringing the seasonal total up to 4.78 inches or more than double the amount registered for this date last year. Last year rainfall in Santa Ana totaled 2.01 inches at this time.

The heaviest rain during the storm was recorded at the Santiago Ranger station where 2.97 inches fell in 24 hours. The seasonal total there is 8.17 inches. Last year at this time the total was 3.43 inches. The lightest rain of the storm fell at Talbert where 1.38 inches was recorded. The seasonal total there is 3.42 inches as compared with 2.23 inches at this time last year.

As a result of the heavy rain during the past 24 hours water was flowing under the Chapman avenue bridge and down Santiago Creek.

Probable showers this afternoon and evening are forecast with clear and cooler weather predicted for Thursday.

LENZ, JACOBY INCREASE LEAD SECOND NIGHT

Run of Cards Continue to Favor Leaders—Strategy Not of Best

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The run of cards favoring the team of Sidney Lenz and Oswald Jacoby over that of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson in their first bridge match Monday, was evident again last night.

Jacoby himself was among the sponsors of the statement that the run of pastboards was definitely towards his team at the completion of one-fifth of the 150 rubber match. The match is scheduled to settle the relative merits of the official one-two-three and the Culbertson approach-forcing methods of bidding.

It began to be evident today, however, that the widely heralded conflict would be really conclusive only to the players themselves—if to them.

At least one stock-holding member of Bridge Headquarters, Inc., sponsor of the official system, asserted that Lenz and Jacoby had changed the official one-two-three values so much that their play offered no fair test of their system.

This statement was made after Lenz had made an opening forcing three bid on a hand which contained the tempting ace-king-queen combination in two suits, both minors. Jacoby, holding an ace-king, responded with three no trump an dthe hand was played, and won, at four trump, no slam being in sight.

The forcing bid worked admirably, but the contention of dissenting official system advocate was that it was unjustified.

Some of the strategy was not of the best in the second session. There was, for instance, the following hand:

Mr. Lenz—Spades, 9 8 7; Hearts, Q J 9 8 6 5 3; Diamonds, 6 4; Clubs, 7.

Mr. Culbertson—Spades, Q 6 4 3 2; Hearts, K; Diamonds, 6 3; Clubs, 10 8 5 4 3.

Mr. Culbertson—Spades, K J 5; Hearts, 7 4 2; Diamonds, J 9 8 2; Clubs, A K 6.

LOS ANGELES EXPRESS SOLD TO W. R. HEARST

Oldest Newspaper in City to Be Consolidated With Herald

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Sale of the Los Angeles Evening Express, oldest daily newspaper of the city, to William Randolph Hearst and his associate, Frank F. Barham, was announced by both interests today.

The Express will be absorbed by the Los Angeles Herald, a Hearst newspaper, of which Barham is the publisher.

The Hearst announcement said that Paul Block, who purchased the Express from Guy Earl and associates last February, will become a director in the Herald and Express organizations.

No details of the financial transactions involved in the deal were made public. The official name of the newspaper will be Los Angeles Herald and Express. It will be printed at the Herald plant effective with Thursday's issue.

Block issued a statement in which he expressed his wish for the success of Hearst and Barham. He said that when he bought the Express early last spring he had planned to spend much time in Los Angeles.

"I found that business conditions made it necessary for me to give all my attention to newspaper interests in the east," Block said in his statement.

"We have just purchased the Evening Express from my friend Paul Block," the Hearst statement said. "It was I who prevailed on Mr. Block to offer the Los Angeles newspaper field early this year, knowing that the paper could be bought. As a competitor of mine in other cities, I had learned to admire and to esteem him highly."

LOS ANGELES CLUB BUYS EARL SHEELY

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Purchase of First Baseman Earl Sheely and Catcher Bill Cronin of the Boston Braves by the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league was announced today.

Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Los Angeles club, said $7,500 was paid for each. Sheely is a veteran of the major leagues, having played for the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates as well as Boston.

$400,000 IN WINE DESTROYED

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—After having preserved $400,000 worth of raw wine in the Silva winery for more than a year, the federal government today was under orders to destroy the wine under a writ of confiscation.

The order was handed down by Federal Judge Frank Gerrihan in United States district court.

CHILDREN, MATCHES RESULT IN DEATH

MERCED FALLS, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Children playing with matches started a fire in the Y. Mateo home here that destroyed the house and burned to death Richard, seven-months-old baby of the family.

Mrs. Mateo was severely burned when she tried to save the child. Investigators said the baby's brothers, Jedio, 4, and William, 3, and sister Barbara, 6, were playing with matches in a bedroom when the bedclothes caught fire. The mother was sleeping in another room. When the children called her, the whole rear end of the house was ablaze and it was with difficulty she saved the three older children.

MAJOR ISSUES AWAIT ACTION BY CONGRESS

Senate Votes Futilely on Candidates for President Pro Tem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The congress which met to tackle one of the biggest peace-time jobs in American history remained today in a state of legislative paralysis, expending its energies in quarrel and talk.

While the house, in "committee of the whole," indulged in oratory over the president's message, and the senate voted futilely on candidates for president pro tempore, at least three major issues awaited decision and action. They were:

- 1.—Taxation. The president's message proposed the greatest tax increase program in years to meet mounting deficits and provide working capital for the government.
- 2.—Debt moratorium. The one-year foreign debt holiday, already in effect, must be ratified by December 15, to avoid embarrassing complications for the administration. On that date payments by foreign countries to the United States come due, and under the moratorium, these would not be met.
- 3.—Prohibition. Under a new and liberal rule adopted yesterday by the house, a vote on this troublesome issue may be taken if 145 members request it in a written petition. The wet bloc is preparing a program and is eager for action.

Neither house is mechanically ready to begin work on the comprehensive economic relief program submitted by President Hoover. Further business is to be piled up today in the form of the budget message and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's annual report, which embody the administration's tax increase plan.

The house, in "committee of the whole," considered Mr. Hoover's message, delivered yesterday. This novel substitute for action was revived from old times by Speaker Garner to escape an embarrassing situation. The house has no committees, the Democrats have no

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Rex Bell and Clara Bow, film newlyweds, deserted their Nevada honeymoon ranch today for Los Angeles and abandoned the pretense that their wedding had not yet taken place.

Bell, admitting they were married, said they would live in Miss Bow's Beverly Hills home for a time before taking a trip.

RECEIVER IS ASKED FOR WARNER FILMS

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A petition to place Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc. into the hands of receivers has been filed in the chancery court of Delaware, a statement issued by the corporation said today.

The suit was brought by a person "claiming to be a stockholder" of the company, the statement said. Former Federal Judge Hugh M. Morris of Wilmington has been retained to represent the corporation, it was said.

"The complainant is not a stockholder of record of the company," the statement said, "and from the information at hand it is apparent that there is no merit to the claim and the allegations made in the petition."

COUNSEL FOR WATER DISTRICT IS DEAD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—W. B. Mathews, general counsel for the Metropolitan Water district, died here today.

A week ago Mathews was operated upon at Good Samaritan hospital for an intestinal obstruction.

Mathews, at the time of his death, was considered one of the nation's authorities on water law. He first entered this type of work in 1907 when he became associated with the Los Angeles department of water and power as special counsel. In 1914 he went back to private practice, retaining his interest in matters pertaining to the water problem of California.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Andrew J. "Boss" Gillis was a voluntary exile somewhere today, trying to comprehend the sound trouncing he received when Gayden W. Morrill, wealthy shoe manufacturer, defeated him for mayor in yesterday's election.

Seeking to shatter a tradition which says no one may serve three successive two-year terms as mayor of Newburyport, the aggressive red-haired ex-sailor was set down by a record margin of 1,115 votes.

LITTLE DAMAGE CAUSED BY FROSTS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Crops in all sections of California were affected to some extent by the recent frost, but serious damage was done in only a few spots, E. E. Kaufman, head of the federal-state crop reporting service, said today.

It will be some time before a reliable estimate of the damage can be available, Kaufman said. The citrus belt in Tulare county was one of the hardest hit sections, where one-third of the crop of oranges, lemons and grapefruit was mailed 6 per cent, now 5 per cent.

INCREASED TAX PROGRAM GIVEN TO CONGRESS

Exemptions—single, $1,000, now $1,500; married, $2,500, now $3,500; dependents, $400 each, no change. No change recommended in 25 per cent reduction on earned income up to $30,000.

Surtaxes—Beginning with 1 per cent on incomes of $10,000, graduated to 37 per cent on incomes between $100,000 and $200,000, reaching 40 per cent on incomes in excess of $500,000, compared with present maximum rate of 20 per cent in incomes exceeding $100,000.

Postal Rates
Increased rates to raise a minimum of $10,000,000 a year additional. (Note—Postmaster General Brown in his annual report just made proposed a 2 cent letter rate, except local, and increases in parcel post, registered, insured and C.O.D. mail, and domestic money orders.)

Corporation Tax
Present rate of 12 per cent to be raised to 12 1/2 per cent.

Estate Tax
Five per cent surtax to be added to existing graduated tax which reaches 20 per cent on estates of $10,000,000. Amounts paid in state inheritance taxes to be credited up to 80 per cent of normal federal inheritance tax, same as now.

"It is not easy for any people to determine to assume a large additional tax burden at a time when their resources are depleted through business depression, but in the long run they will best serve their own interests by doing whatever is required to maintain the finances of their government on a sound basis," Mellon said. "I am confident that increased taxation, clearly necessitated by emergency conditions, will meet the supporting response of our citizens to the needs of the government."

"The increase of the revenues must be decisively undertaken, but the promptness with which full adjustment can wisely be effected is conditioned upon existing economic circumstances. The rate at which debt reduction has hitherto been effected still permits some leeway. Additional tax burdens should not be so great as to retard the business recovery upon which the restoration of the normal flow of revenue depends."

In advocating a return to the general tax basis of 1924, Mellon said:

"The country knows the burdens to be expected under such a law. It paid taxes under that law and notwithstanding the higher rates and broader scope of that act, found that these taxes did not constitute an unbearable burden nor prevent increased prosperity. Instead of embarking on new and untried ventures in taxation, it is wiser to utilize a known general plan with such changes as may be appropriate in the light of altered conditions."

The 1924 law was the first big tax measure of the Coolidge administration. Originally recommended by Mellon, it was revised under the leadership of Rep. John Garner, now Democratic speaker of the house. Mellon opposed its high income and inheritance tax rates but in the present emergency he is more favorable to them temporarily though still unwilling to go to the maximum inheritance tax of 1924.

Not Normal Times
"We are convinced that in the long run lower rates are more productive than the higher ones," Mellon said. "But these are not normal times. There is a real emergency resulting in the immediate need for a substantial amount of additional revenue. Until the emergency is passed, we cannot avoid utilization of emergency measures."

"We believe that the taxpayers will recognize the facts of the situation, and particularly in view of their temporary character, will co-operate with the government to make higher rates effective," Mellon said. The lower income tax exemptions would bring back 1,700,000 additional taxpayers, making a total of 3,500,000 of which less than 300,000 would contribute 90 per cent of the tax.

"The taxpayer is asked to resume a large additional burden," Mellon said. "It is entitled to know that the government on its part is so conducting its business as not to demand of him anything more than is actually necessary."

"He emphasized that money raised by a government loan would in the end have to be redeemed by taxes. "There is a limit to the extent to which the government, under our social and economic structure, may wisely divert funds from private employment to governmental use," Mellon continued. "When we take into consideration the mounting burden of state and local taxes, it is not exaggeration to say that we are approaching that limit."

Mellon said that in laying out the program "it has been assumed that in the calendar year of 1932 there will be definite improvement in the general conditions of industry and trade." However, the government will be slow to benefit because any increased business next year would not be deflected until taxes are collected in 1933 and furthermore corporations may carry forward prior losses in computing income returns.

Mellon reiterated President Hoover's analysis of the government debt predicting it would increase $3,250,000,000 in the three years, 1931-33.

"Such a financial condition calls for an immediate remedy," he added.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSE MELLON'S TAX PLAN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Democratic leaders of the house condemned the administration's tax increase program as soon as it was presented today.

They said they would soon formulate a plan of their own in which the burden would be laid on large incomes. The administration proposed higher levies on small as well as big incomes, and sales taxes. The Democrats now control the house, where all tax legislation must originate.

Floor Leader Rainey said the Democratic program would be drafted at a meeting of the joint "policy" committee of house and

ANAHEIM MAN KILLED WHEN CAR HITS POLE

Henry B. Haws, 49, service station owner of 148 West Center street, Anaheim, was almost instantly killed late yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving skidded on the wet pavement and crashed into a telephone pole.

The accident occurred near Harding, six miles west of Anaheim, on Lincoln boulevard. Although no eye witnesses to the crash have been found, it is believed that Haws suddenly applied the brakes of the machine, causing it to skid into the pole. The pole was struck with such force that it was severed and fell onto the car, crushing the lone passenger inside.

Passersby took the man to Buena Park, where he died while being given first aid treatment by a doctor there. The body then was removed to the Backe, Terry and Campbell funeral parlors at Anaheim, where Coroner Charles D. Brown said he would hold an inquest probably tomorrow.

Death was due to a fractured skull, it is believed, although the body showed signs of internal injuries, it was reported. Haws was a native of Louisville, Ky. He was widower, his wife having died in Anaheim about seven years ago. With his brother, James A. Haws he has been operating a service station at 301 South Los Angeles street. He is survived by five brothers.

Mr. Lenz bid two hearts, Mr. Jacoby two no trumps, Mr. Lenz three hearts, Mr. Jacoby three no trump and Mr. Lenz four hearts. He made five. At double dummy, taking the singleton king of hearts with the ace instead of trying a finesse, a little slam can be made, but with four hearts out the declarer would be taking undue liberties if he attempted such a play.

The most searching analysis of play in the first two sessions of the contest falls to give any basis for a strictly neutral judgment upon the rival systems of bidding. Of the 10 rubbers, the Lenz team has won six on the basis of games, and the Culbertson team four. On a basis of net score per rubber, the Lenz team has won seven, the Culbertsons three.

But for the 10 rubbers, the Lenz margin of 2015 points amounts to only 207 per rubber and at the tenth of a cent point which probably marks the norm of household contract, the total loss of the Culbertsons for the 10 rubbers would be a trifling $2.07.

senate Democrats. He flatly opposed any sales tax, even on the few items Mellon selected. He said the Democrats would not stand for the increased taxes on the small taxpayer through reduced exemptions as the administration proposed.

The Mellon exemption proposals were criticized also by Chairman Collier, Miss. of the ways and means committee, which will draft a tax bill. He opposes a sales tax, but said a limited tax from such sources may be necessary.

Below is shown a reproduction of one of the pages from a book of Eugene Field, poems, which according to its owner, B. Tarkington Dowden, of Santa Ana, was written, illustrated and bound by the famous children's poet. The book, which was given by Field to Dowden when he was a small child, lay forgotten in a trunk for 30 years and has just been found.

GARDEN AND CRADLE

When our babe he goeth walking
In his garden,
Around his tinkling feet the sunbeams
Play;
The poems they are good to him,
And bow them as they should to him.
As garb he upon his kingly way
And birdlings of the wood to him,
Make music, gentle music, all the day,
When our babe he goeth walking in his garden.

When our babe he goeth swinging in his cradle,
Then the night it looketh even sweet-
ly down;
The little stars are kind to him,
The moon she hath a mind to him
And layeth on his head a golden crown;
And singeth then the wind to him
A song, the gentle song of Bethlehem town.
When our babe he goeth swinging in his cradle.

Francisco, discovered the almost forgotten book and sent it to her son, for whom it was compiled, for him to give in turn to his own small son, Bishop Tarkington Dowden Jr., now a year-and-a-half old.

But it is the belief of both Mr. and Mrs. Dowden that the book is too valuable for private ownership, and that its true place is in a museum where everyone could enjoy it. They are considering it as a gift to some Field society where it would receive the care and attention it deserves. Harry Leon Wilson, well-known author who is now in Hollywood, has expressed the liveliest interest in the book, and any questions as to its authenticity are dispelled by his statement that the fine writing and printing of the poems, is exactly the same as evidences of Eugene Field's writing which are in his possession.

Mrs. Ila Hendricks Sample is still living in Chicago, and recalls the whole circumstance of the gift and its presentation, and the added sentimental value attached to the volume at the time of Field's death in such a few short months.

B. Tarkington Dowden, owner of the precious volume, is a member of the same family of Booth Tarkington, famous Hoosier novelist, and is Tarkington's only living nephew. He graduated in 1915 from Lakeview high school in Chicago, and his childhood associations with the great and the near-great in the home of his aunt, were responsible for the presence of George Ade as chief speaker at the commencement exercises.

MANSLAUGHTER JURY REPORTED IN DEAD LOCK

After 24 hours of deliberation, a vote of 11 to one for acquittal was rumored to be the nature of the deadlock in which the jury found itself at noon today in the case of S. G. Seavey, 64, of Orange, charged with manslaughter in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court here. It was reported that the sole juror voting for conviction is a woman.

Seavey was accused of manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid after his car is asserted to have struck Henry Meyer, 60, also of Orange, in front of the Orange theater one night last October. Meyer was injured fatally. The jury went out to lunch at noon today, prepared to continue its attempt to arrive at a verdict this afternoon.

The fact that Seavey admitted taking a drink of wine tonic two hours before the accident was an important phase of the testimony which it was believed was being considered by the jury. The failure to stop and render aid charge was dismissed after the testimony was all in, by District Attorney Sam L. Collins and Assistant District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, handling the prosecution. D. G. Wetlin, attorney for Seavey, contended in his final argument that his client probably never saw Meyer in front of his car, that he might have been confused by many lights in that vicinity and that the accident was one which easily might happen to anyone.

COUNTY LEGION AUXILIARY IN MONTHLY MEET

Special from Anaheim

All state officers with the exception of the president were present yesterday at the regular December meeting of the Orange County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary, which met in Anaheim yesterday in the legion clubrooms in the City Hall for a noon luncheon followed by the business meeting.

Plans were perfected for the Christmas party which will be given the war veterans at the San Fernando hospital on Sunday evening, December 20. Rust was named general chairman of the affair. The council will send a large fruit cake to the party and the different units will take jams, jellies, cookies, and nuts. Each unit will contribute towards the program.

The 1 o'clock luncheon preceded the business meeting at 2 o'clock. The tables were decorated in the Christmas colors of green and red with asparagus fern, southern smilax, red berries and tall, red tapers in low crystal holders completing the motif.

Mrs. Helen Bettsold, president of the Anaheim organization acted as hostess. State officers seated at the table with her were Mrs. Fannie Reeves of Santa Ana, county council president; Mrs. Harriet K. Boyd, vice president; Josephine Lykke, secretary; Mrs. Gladys Prescott, of Alhambra, department chairman of community service; Mrs. Muriel Harton of Los Angeles, department chairman of rehabilitation; Carroll Marks, state legislation chairman; Myra Foster, department radio chairman; Myrna Wynkoop, eighth district president; Edna Franzen, twenty-first district vice president; Rowena Fultz, fifth area president; Beatrice Stelle of San Bernardino, twenty-first dis-

NEW OFFICERS OF EXCHANGE CLUB SEATED

With District Governor Hayden Hewes of Riverside presiding as installing officer, recently elected officers of the Santa Ana Exchange club were seated last night. The ceremonies were held at a Ladies Night banquet in the Santa Ana Cafe.

Officers seated for the six months term were: Stanley Clem, president; Carl Stein, vice president; John Ott, re-elected treasurer; and H. P. Harrison, secretary. New directors were: W. L. Tubbs, Harrison and W. E. Hayes.

In his installation address Hewes outlined the purposes and ideals of the Exchange and told details of the Riverside annual Christmas party at which time toys for children and food for the needy are provided by club members for distribution.

Dr. Don Stevenson, president of the Riverside Exchange club was a member of the honored guest party and spoke briefly congratulating the new officers of the Santa Ana club.

John Valentine, well known vocalist, now living in Hollywood, sang several songs during the dinner. He was accompanied at the piano by Earl Fraser, Santa Ana pianist. Russell Thompson's Hawaiian also entertained during the dinner.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Carmichael Planned For Friday

Mrs. Margaret Ann Carmichael, 76, a resident of Tustin, who has lived in Orange county for the past 10 years, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock from the Winbigler funeral home. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Prothro, of Tustin, with whom she made her home, a son, F. R. Carmichael, of Iowa, and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Opha Deck of Santa Maria. The Prothors formerly lived in the El Toro district and are well known in the county.

A WORD OF COMFORT

You are not asked to bolster your courage and your will with hope for victory in some distant future, while your own wishes in anguish today. Not God gives you strength or the hour, and it is enough if you will use it. Triumph over depression and despair and loneliness comes not through a lessening of the pain in your heart, but through a determination to which you have to do your best or just one moment more. Just as you anticipate being exhausted, new force arises within you and you know that God is with you, so that you can not fail.

DISCUSSED AT COUNTY BOARD GETS TAX PLEA MEET TUESDAY

Suggestions calling for a bond election next spring in connection with the Orange county flood control and water conservation program to provide funds for construction of the various dams and control works, was made at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county at Midway City last night by the water committee of the organization.

In making the report of the committee, Ross Shafer urged the present condition of unemployment as the chief reason for setting an early date for holding the election. He said the way would probably be cleared for the bond election as an agreement between directors of the flood control district and owners of lands in the Prado dam site might be reached in the near future; that this was no insurmountable obstacle to prevent agreement on San Juan water; and litigation between interior interests and coast communities and individuals was in process of settlement.

Shafer also pointed out that adjacent counties bordering the Santa Ana river watershed are organizing to conserve water, and that unless Orange county takes the initiative and acquires title by development, conservation and use to the 7,500,000 acre feet of water possible of development under the project, other counties and groups will take steps in that direction and obtain the title.

The belief was expressed that the matter would be taken care of in time to permit the election in April.

Farm Data
Harold Wahlberg, county farm bureau advisor, gave some interesting data on orange county in making the report for the agricultural committee. He said Orange county farms had increased 18 per cent in a decade but that acreage under cultivation had decreased from 235,000 to 237,000, owing to formation of subdivisions and growth of cities.

The value of the land under cultivation has increased 50 per cent in the past 10 years. Of the 4960 farms in Orange county, 4260 are operated by their owners. He said the recent cold spell was of value to the walnut crop as it put the walnut trees into dormancy early in the season, insuring a good crop next year. He thought little damage had been done to the citrus crop by the cold weather, thus far this season.

Twenty-one communities and groups were represented at the meeting of the association last night with about 60 people attending. It was the first meeting the organization has held in Midway City.

Given Shoes
O. T. Stevens of La Habra, president of the association, presided. Claude Harlow of Midway City delivered the address of welcome on behalf of Midway City, presenting in the course of his address a pair of shoes to President Stevens. The shoes were made in the Midway City shoe factory of Randall M. Scott and Sons, incorporated. Judge Thomas Pickrell of Placentia made the response to the address of welcome.

Roll call by Secretary May showed the following communities and groups represented at the meeting: Anaheim, Brea, Buena Park, Costa Mesa, Cypress, El Modena, Fullerton, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, La Habra, Los Alamitos, Midway City, Newport Beach, Orange, Orange County Farm Bureau, Placentia, San Juan Capistrano, Santa Ana, Tustin, Westminster.

George Kellogg of Yorba Linda made a road report discussing the Imperial highway and what it means to Orange county and Southern California. He invited those present to the good roads celebration at Elsinore on January 30, urging those who attend to spend the day Saturday at the good roads meeting and remain in Elsinore Saturday night and return Sunday.

Beautification Urged
V. D. Johnson of Orange urged the beautification of Orange county communities and highways preparatory to the Olympic meet next year. He suggested the planting of vacant lots with flowers and the planting of flowers along the highways, pointing out that cooperation along these lines would result in splendid advertising for the county and the various communities.

Secretary Harry May reported on the recent conference with mayors of California cities and Governor James Rolph, Jr., held in Los Angeles. He mentioned many cities where community camps were established to take care of transients. He said that the rush of unemployed people into California was to some extent caused by the return of California young men who had gone to other states seeking work in the harvest fields and were now returning. He said the fact that so many of the incoming unemployed were Californians put a new light on this phase of the present unfortunate economic problem confronting every community.

The meeting closed with an entertainment program put on by Jerry Hayes, president of the Orange County Life Insurance association in which Ben and Betty

SCHOOL BOARD HAPPY AS HEASTON DECIDES TO MOVE; ACCEPTS $3500 FOR HOME

William Heaston, 92, is moving today. This fact, commonplace as it might seem, is of considerable importance to the Santa Ana board of education. For Heaston's property on South Flower street is owned by the school district as a result of condemnation proceedings. The property is more or less of an island surrounded on three sides by the Lovell school playground, and Heaston, refusing to accept the price set by the court, has continued to reside there to the embarrassment of the board.

George Wells, president of the board, reported Heaston's removal to the board when it met last night in the school administration offices. He said

Heaston had not revealed his reasons for finally deciding to change his residence.

The board at one time offered him $4500 for his home but Heaston refused. The court set the price at $3500. For a time there was a deadlock, Heaston refusing to accept the money and the board being unable to offer any other figure than that set by the court.

The house will be moved to the vicinity of Pastor and Walnut street across the street from the high school, where it will join a group of bungalows used as class rooms. The cost of moving and placing the house in condition for school use is estimated at about $250 by George Newcom, business manager for the board.

hospital where he was taken for treatment.

According to a correction received today the Christmas party for crippled children to be held Tuesday, December 22 will be held at Anaheim in the Elks club instead of at Santa Ana as previously reported. The affair will be sponsored by the Lions club and is arranged by the Crippled Children's Relief association of Orange county.

The Democratic Central committee of Orange county will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the offices of West and McKinney, 303 First National Bank building. This will be an open meeting with several prominent Democrats, not members of the committee, also attending.

Three Orange county men were scheduled to attend the annual meeting of the Inter County Walnut association at the Central Walnut house in Los Angeles at 2 p. m. today at which officers were to be elected. Those planning to attend were Andrew Smiley, Garden Grove; A. J. McFadden, Santa Ana, and Assistant Farm Advisor E. E. Eastman, of Santa Ana.

Griffith of Long Beach, now with the Mickey McGuire studios, put on a skit and several dancing on life insurance by Aubrey Davis numbers. A very splendid address of Los Angeles, Southern California representative of the Prudential Insurance company, closed the meeting.

Jeane Pillard, 34, of Thirteenth street, Seal Beach, was cracking his car yesterday afternoon when the crank jumped back, striking him on the right arm and breaking it. He was taken to the Orange county hospital where the bone was set and he was given first aid treatment.

Jesus Cisneros, 10, of East Truxlow street, Fullerton, was riding along in front of his home yesterday afternoon on his scooter when he fell fracturing his thumb, according to the Orange county

RAIN FAILS TO HALT SANTIAGO DAM CEREMONY

The dedication of the $750,000 Santiago dam yesterday afternoon was marked by ceremonies made more impressive by the heavy rain clouds overhead, the drenched ground underneath and the indifference of those present to the showers which added an appreciable amount of rainfall to the county's total for the year and which was hailed as a happy omen of the dedication of the great structure designed to conserve the flood waters of the Santiago.

A barbecue dinner was served to nearly 1000 persons and tables had been set under the sycamore trees at the site of the dam. The L. G. Tourneau construction company, the Irvine company, the Serrano and John T. Carpenter irrigation districts were hosts to the stockholders of the companies and newspaper men of the county.

Program Broadcast
A broadcasting system had been installed and the program was thus audible to the entire group. Willard Smith, president of the Serrano Water company, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers. Smith gave a brief resume of the plans of many years which reached a culmination yesterday in the dedication of the huge structure.

The matter of a dam first was considered in 1910, Smith said, later more definite plans were completed and two irrigation districts were formed. The Serrano and John T. Carpenter districts were formed with a bond issue of $200,000 each. The Carpenter district voted the bonds unanimously and the Serrano district had but one dissenting vote, Smith recalled.

L. W. Evans, president of the John T. Carpenter Water company, spoke briefly commenting on the happiness of the occasion and introducing his board of directors. The directors of the Serrano district were introduced by Smith, Frank Collins, secretary of the Serrano company and Donald Smiley of the John T. Carpenter company were introduced.

James Irvine Jr., head of the Irvine company, declared that water development was of the greatest importance to this region. Water was not a problem 50 years ago when he first came to this county, Irvine said, as bubbling wells which were used, overflowed to such an extent that they were troublesome to neighbors, while at the present time conditions were reversed.

Irvine Tells of Task
"It has been my desire and dream," Mr. Irvine said, to develop water as far as possible. This great dam is the first and only major water conservation project in the county and will add from 15,000 to 20,000 acre feet of water to the county supply each year. Work toward the building of the dam has been in progress for many years and at times it has been most discouraging, but perseverance has brought about what we have here today.

"Water development along the coast is another important project. An effort has been made to prevent this work from being carried on and I should not like to see this work restricted. I am grateful to Judge R. Y. Williams for his help toward the completion of this project.

Engineers Introduced
R. G. Tourneau and the engineers of the company were introduced and A. Kempke, consulting engineer of San Francisco, who had charge of the dam construction and drew the plans gave figures on its construction. The earthwork contains 1,100,000 cubic yards of dirt, the engineer stated, its height is 165 feet, with 30 feet below the original level; its length is 1400 feet; it has a storage capacity of 25,000 acre feet; 20,000 barrels of cement and 675 tons of reinforcing steel were used in its construction. The spillway is 280 feet along the crest, it is 80 feet wide in the channel and it has a capacity of 24,000 cubic feet per second.

The work on the dam, which still includes a small amount of cement facing on the inner surface to be finished, will be done entirely within the next 10 days, Kempke said.

GETS $100 FINE ON MARIJUANA CHARGE

Remigio Medina, 36, Cypress, was fined $100 in Judge Charles Kuchel's Anaheim justice court today on a charge of having marijuana in his possession. Unable to pay the fine, he was returned to his cell in the county jail, where he has been since Sheriff's Officers E. T. Nickles and J. Barnett arrested him Monday night.

Medina had approximately $2000 worth of the weed in his possession at the time of the arrest, officers reported. It was contained in scores of tobacco cans.

COMPLAINS OF THEFT
Mrs. Elizabeth Boyle, of 912 West Walnut street, reported to police last night that boys have been stealing oranges from trees in her grove, near that location. She said the boys had an idea that it was not against the law to steal oranges in Santa Ana and asked police to correct that idea.

STORE WORKERS TO BE QUIZZED IN THEFT CASE

Following the finding of fingerprints on the door of the safe burglarized at the Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips automobile parts house at Second and Spurgeon streets Sunday night, police were today carrying on an extensive investigation of the burglary which they believe to be an "inside job" they declared.

The prints found by Herman Zabel, fingerprint expert of the sheriff's office, have been photographed, and the police department this afternoon will ask every employee of the company to submit to a fingerprint examination.

Approximately $200 in cash was taken from the safe of the Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips place and $7 in cash was taken from the cash register of the J. Arthur Whitney store, next door, which is connected with the Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips place by an inside door.

Investigation of the safe revealed the fact that the combination was not perfect and officers believe that someone working at one of the two places knew this and took advantage of it, they reported.

CAMP COMMITTEE REFUSED MONEY

S. R. Black, chairman of the state labor camp committee which was an outgrowth of the recent unemployment conference at Los Angeles, called Mayor John Parker, informed the board of supervisors here by letter yesterday that his committee is preparing to establish more labor camps. The letter said the camps would take in some of the unemployed of this county and asked the board what financial aid could be expected from Orange county.

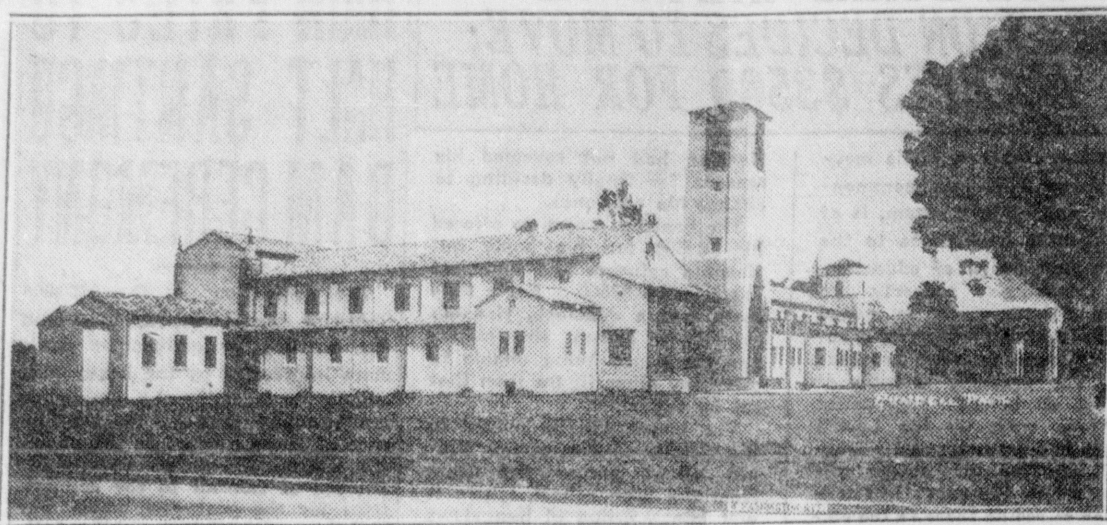

The supervisors instructed County Clerk J. M. Backs to write Black explaining that no money could be expected from this county inasmuch as it is faced with as much of a financial drain as it can cope with now in carrying on its own unemployment program.

ORDINANCE ON GANGSTERS IS BEFORE BOARD

Orange county today was taking its first steps toward a possible move to cope with the influx of gangsters which is anticipated in the vicinity of Los Angeles, particularly at the time of the Olympic games in Los Angeles in 1932.

The so-called gangster ordinance which had been under consideration by the Los Angeles county board of supervisors was referred to the Orange county board by John K. Hall, Long Beach city prosecutor, representing the City Prosecutors' association of Los Angeles county, which has endorsed the ordinance, urging concerted action by cities and counties in this section.

The Los Angeles county board deferred action when the ordinance was presented by District Attorney Buron Fitts, suggesting that neighboring counties and cities might be asked to take similar action. The Orange county board referred the proposal to District Attorney Sam L. Collins.

Provisions of the proposed rule require that any person who has been convicted of a felony in this state or elsewhere and who has been released within the last seven years shall register with the police chief within 24 hours of his arrival in any city where the ordinance is in effect. Failure to do so would constitute a misdemeanor punishable by a $500 fine or six months in jail or both. The only exception from the registration requirement would be those who have been pardoned or are on probation.

Hall's letter referred to action being taken against gangsters in eastern cities and intimated that this, coupled with the influx which may attend the Olympic games, may result in a gangster problem in Southern California. The Orange county board of supervisors took into consideration the fact that if Los Angeles takes such action as the ordinance recommends, newly arrived gangsters might be driven across the line into this county, and something would have to be done to cope with the situation here.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 9—Charles Anderson, who is taking a post graduate course at Huntington Beach Union High school, is to have one of the leading roles in a Christmas benefit play which is being presented by the school just prior to the holiday vacation.

Mrs. Arthur McDermont, of Riverside, sister of Frank Skinner and A. D. Skinner, of this place, was a visitor one day in their homes, she having just returned from a stay in Europe. Mrs. McDermont was accompanied by another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swezey, of San Diego, who were guests in her Riverside home at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stephenson had as dinner guests L. C. Bartholm and Miss Davis, friends from Hollywood.

Mrs. E. E. Houser has been confined at her home by illness this week.

Mrs. Lily Price, who has been visiting at Los Olivos with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murdy were visitors in Long Beach Wednesday.

Mrs. Susie Pratt, of Ontario, was a Thursday caller in the home of local friends. Mr. and Mrs. Pratt resided several years ago on the Richard Haster ranch on Seventeenth street.

Men of the local Americanization class who are members of the orchestra are busily preparing a program for the coming Christmas festivities being arranged for the local Mexicans. The date has not been set. The orchestra members include Celestino Cruz, Paul Cruz, Jesus Cruz and J. Garcia.

A party from Westminster attended the Eastern Star installation held December 2, at Huntington Beach, these being Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Chamberland, Mrs. Alice Hare.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Knox have with them their two grandsons, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, of Santa Monica.

Mrs. Glenn Wells, Mrs. May Finley, of Westminster, and Mrs. Pearl Bell, of Midway City, spent Friday in Long Beach.

FORMER SANTA ANA PUBLISHER DIES

Word was received here today that Lon F. Chapin, 69, associate editor of the Pasadena Star News and former Santa Ana newspaperman, died late yesterday after a long illness.

Chapin who was one of the most widely known newspapermen in Southern California, came to Santa Ana in 1899 and purchased the old Santa Ana Standard, weekly newspaper operated here for many years by Dan Baker. Chapin purchased the paper from Frank Honeywell who had operated it for less than a year.

After operating the Standard for approximately one year Chapin sold it and bought a half interest in the Pasadena News. Upon consolidation of the News and the Star in that city he became part owner and associate editor of the Star-News. Chapin is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary B. Chapin, two daughters and four sons, all of Pasadena.

Good Health Can be Restored to You by CHIROPRACTIC —the Radionic Way

A REMARKABLE INSTRUMENT

I investigated from every angle before offering RADIONICS to my patients. The remarkable instrument for diagnosing disease, although new in its field, IS ALREADY A LEADER. Testimonials by the score of unquestioned veracity attest its accuracy and almost uncanny ability to show you your trouble. It proved its worth before astounded M. D.'s in New York City. Hundreds are now in daily use.

WHY IT IS

It is practically impossible to explain in so many words the "HOW and WHY" of this instrument so that you would understand how it works. Such an article would necessarily have to be so technical that it is doubtful if after reading such a description you would visualize just what the equipment is actually doing. We suggest that, if you are desirous of knowing your true physical condition, you make an appointment for a thorough examination and analysis of your case. There is no charge or obligation to this offer.

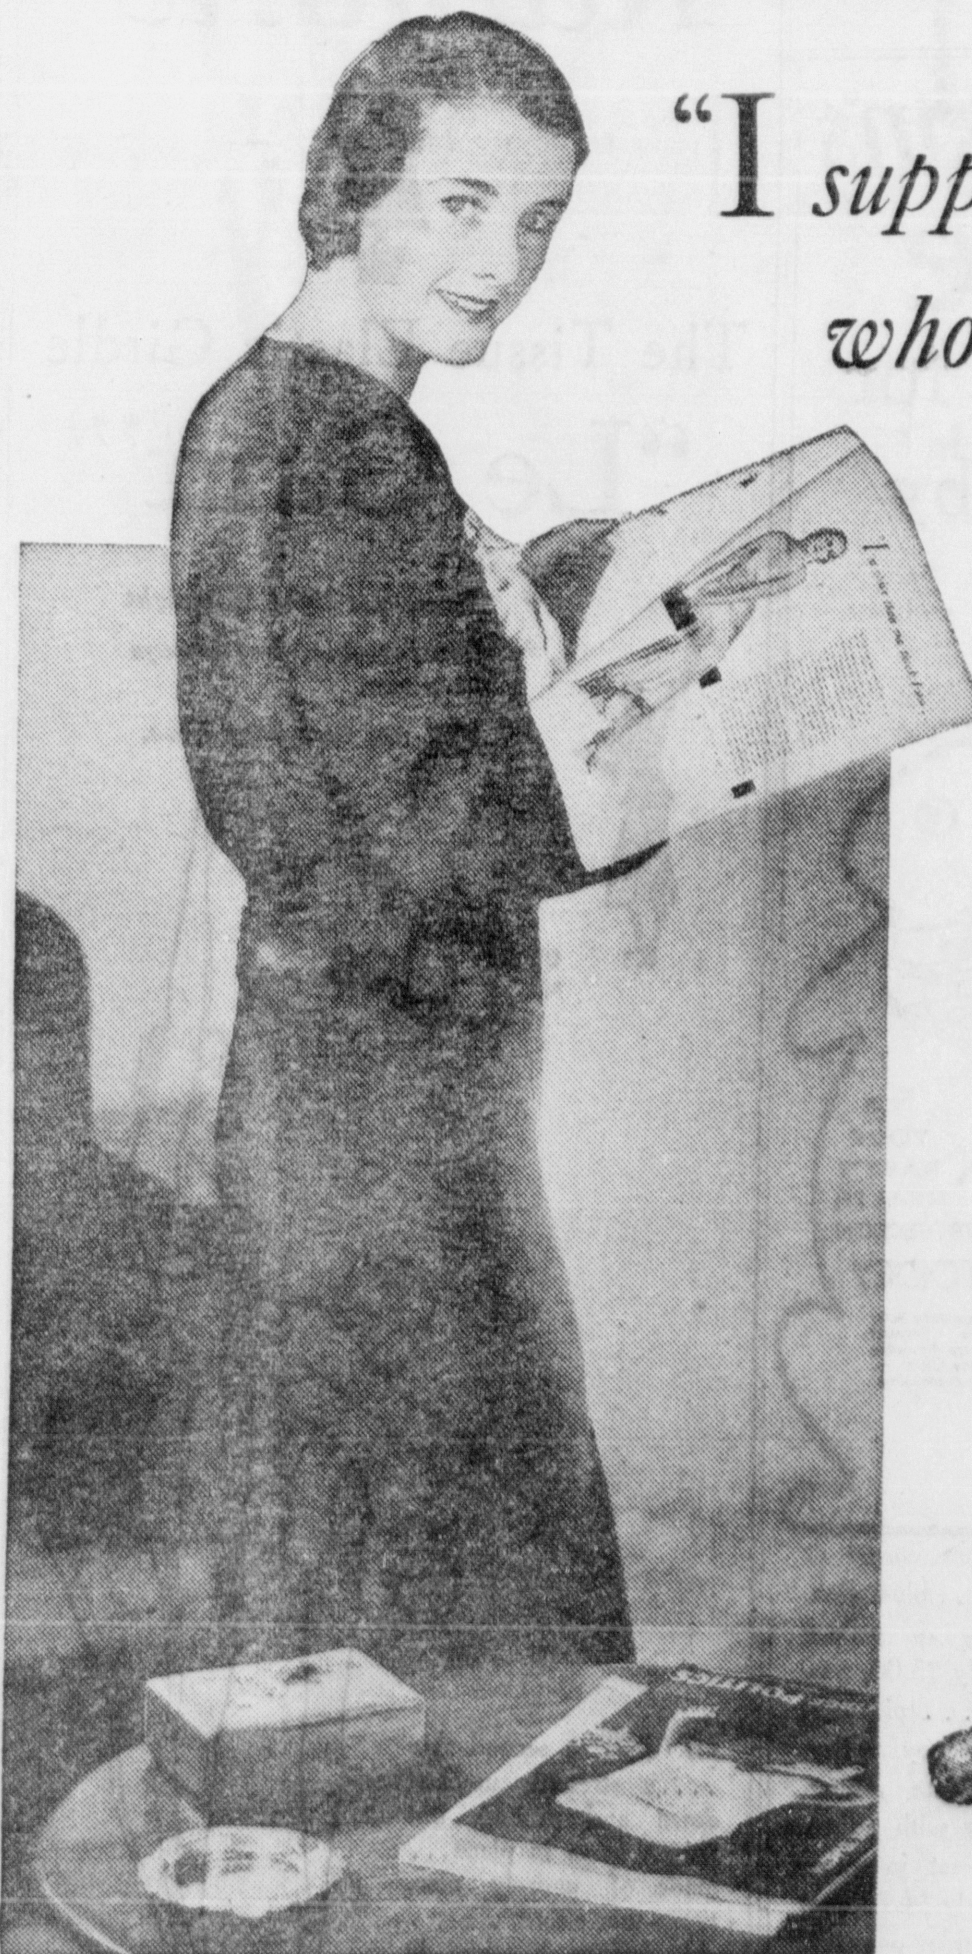

I have made arrangements with the manufacturers of the Radionic instrument to obtain the services of Dr. E. A. Bauer, a nationally recognized Radionic authority and expert technician. Dr. Bauer will make all examination and analysis under staff of the manufacturers of the Radionic instrument for the past five years, conducting clinics in scores of cities in various sections of the United States. He is recognized by leading specialists as one of the outstanding technicians of today. All examination and analysis will be made by him. And inasmuch as this expert is being furnished me by the manufacturers of the instrument I am passing my good fortune on to you.

"I suppose I'm like most people who read the newspapers..."

"I DON'T read all the ads, any more than I read the whole of any newspaper or magazine. But I do read a good many of them.

"Recently I've been reading more than usual, and I certainly like what Chesterfield has to say and the way it is said. I would probably like the cigarette, too, but somehow I just haven't got 'round to trying it.

"Come to think of it, I can't tell you why I smoke this other cigarette. It's more from habit, I suppose, than for any real reason.

"I'd never thought about it before, but last night, at a party, I noticed eight of my friends—five men and three girls—who had changed to Chesterfields. They told me that Chesterfields are milder, that they taste better, that they just seem to satisfy.

"Of course, cigarettes are a small thing, but, after all, they give me a lot of pleasure, and a cigarette like Chesterfield that you hear such good things about, must be good. Anyway, I've just bought my first package of Chesterfields, and I believe I'll find them just like the ads say—milder—taste better—pure—satisfy."

TREBLE CLEF CLUB AND PIANIST SCORE SUCCESS IN BENEFIT PROGRAM

An outstanding musical program was given last night by the Treble Clef club of Santa Ana, with Marie Mikova as guest artist.

In spite of the wet weather the auditorium was filled, and the audience showed a warm appreciation for the club as well as for the pianist, who is regarded as one of the best of the country.

The club opened the program with deep feeling and commendable tone qualities. As an encore she graciously gave one of the Chopin Waltzes, which was warmly received by the audience.

The next group by the club was composed of "The Mill" (Pierne), "The Smith" (Brahms), and "The Last Night" (Chopin). In this group the club showed the cleverness of interpreting the different types of compositions, the entire personnel being in proper mood of each composition. William C. Hall, the director, showed his unusual ability in giving each score the proper and accurate reading. To the continuous applause the club gave three Christmas Carols, which were well received.

For the next group Marie Mikova gave "Melody" (Young), "Capriccio" (Urban), "Island Spell" (Ireland), and "Peasant Festival" (Smetana). Her performance was so finished that she would satisfy the most rigid music critics. It was said by those in the audience who are deeply interested in music, "The Breeze" (Manney), a Mexican folk song, was given by the club with the real spirit of the composition. "The Swan" (C. Saint-Saens) was done very artistically—tone color and expression were outstanding.

The closing number, "The Bells of St. Mary's" (Adams), was a fitting final which gave the program a touch of completeness. At this time the club members and their director received an ovation from the entire audience, for which they gave one verse of the song again as an encore.

Ola Strauber, accompanist, showed her ability as such, throughout the entire program.

The audience was very liberal in praising the work of the club and its director. Several prominent musicians were at hand to extend congratulations for the beautiful program presented for such a worthy cause as to help the crippled children of Orange county.

YULE MEETING OF COAST BODY HELD DEC. 15

The special committee appointed to plan for the annual Christmas meeting and party of the Orange County Coast association has been in conference and as a result several individuals are busy preparing surprise packages for the association meeting at Seal Beach December 15.

Called for the city hall at Seal Beach, this gathering promises to be one of the most interesting of the many meetings held by the coast group and President Malcom, in issuing the call, has urged a full attendance of delegates from all parts of the coast line. Elmer Hughes and W. D. Miller of Seal Beach will be in charge of reception and will welcome the guests on arrival. From Sunset Beach, J. A. Armistead will head a group. From Huntington Beach, Charles R. Furr, Judge Patten and others will lead a large number of townsmen to the meeting. The several communities surrounding Newport bay will be headed by J. P. Greeley and George Macleod, of Balboa; Lew H. Wallace, of Newport Beach; Dr. C. G. Huston, of Costa Mesa, and several others active in coast work.

From Laguna, Sumner Crosby and Leslie P. Kimmell will take the lead and from Dana Point will come L. J. Burrard and Jim Lyle, while S. H. Woodruff will come down to the gathering from Hollywood land. San Juan Capistrano will be represented by President John Malcom and Carl Hankey and Doheney Palisades by R. H. White and H. E. Leyden. San Clemente will be represented by Mayor Murphine, Ole Hanson Jr., and a large group.

Seal Beach citizens will provide a Christmas tree and surprise presents of a humorous nature will be distributed.

Those planning to attend are asked to notify Chairman W. D. Miller.

BOARD TO SET RENTAL PRICE ON AUDITORIUM

As a result of recent requests for use of the auditorium of the Frances Willard Junior High school, the board of education at its meeting last night in the school administration offices decided to establish a definite price at which the auditorium will be available.

Dr. W. M. Burke, board member, was authorized to draw up a plan to answer this purpose. Tentative discussion revealed that $10 a night is thought to be a possible price. The high school auditorium, seating about twice as many persons, has been available at a price of $35 and several members of the board thought it would be advisable to reduce this price if the Frances Willard figure is set at $10.

Sentiment of board members seemed to be that when the auditoriums are used for programs on which admission charges are made, a higher rental price would be justified. A higher price also was thought justified when an outside organization uses the rooms. It was stated that there was no desire to set the price so low as to compete with auditoriums which are rented commercially. Charge for the school auditoriums is designed to offset heat, light and janitor expense.

Burke suggested that a definite rule be established and rigidly adhered to. He said he was opposed to the idea of deciding each case separately according to the plea which is made for use of the room.

CITY TAXI OWNED BY MRS. J. B. KINZER

The City Taxi company, on North Broadway, has not been purchased by C. H. Eckles, as reported in error yesterday. It was declared today by J. B. Kinzer, manager of the City Taxi company. The concern which Eckles has purchased was the Owl Taxi company, on North Main street, formerly operated by Mrs. Katherine Davies.

Kinzer also pointed out that although Eckles, who operates the Santa Ana Bus Service, has made an offer to buy the City Taxi company, the offer was rejected by Mrs. J. B. Kinzer, owner. He said that Eckles had no connection whatever with the City Taxi company.

LEADS SENATE G. O. P.

JAMES ELI WATSON of Indiana

BIG-FRAMED—big-voiced, jovial, nimble-tongued, dependable party war-horse. . . . Republican floor leader in Senate. . . . Guides political movements and gets along pleasantly with anybody and everybody. Congressman Will Wood said: "He can call more men by their first names in more states than any other man living or dead." . . . Known as "Sunny Jim." . . . Sixty-seven years old, first elected to congress in 1894, a gradually more important inside cog in G. O. P. ever since. Senator since his defeat of Tom Taggart in 1916. . . . Patient and long-suffering, has tried loyally to guide administration programs through Democratic-insurgent hostile majority. Present prospects of success poorer than ever. . . . Smiles and extends the glad hand as readily as ever. Jokes about his troubles. . . . Poor, self-confessedly "reactionary" and proud of practical schooling in Indiana politics. . . . Most famous speech: The one in which he predicted the Hawley-Smoot tariff act, about to pass, would restore full prosperity in 60 days. . . . Candidate for presidential nomination in 1928, leader in that ill-fated "stop Hoover" movement. . . . Excoriated Hoover then, but no one has since more fervently defended the president or waved arms more dramatically while boasting of administration achievements. . . . Watson and Hoover allegedly entertain cordial dislike for each other. Watson has three sons; belongs to Knights of Pythias.

NEXT: Robinson, Democratic leader in the senate.

PLAN TEACHERS' ROOM AT NORTH SIDE SCHOOL

A teachers' room at the Jefferson school will be a reality in the near future as a result of action taken by the board of education last night at the suggestion of Mrs. Dexter Ball, of the Jefferson Parent-Teacher club. Mrs. Ball appeared before the board with Miss Lucie M. McDermott and Mrs. Mary F. Coffman, teachers at the Jefferson building.

Mrs. Ball, Dr. Percy R. Davis, school superintendent, M. B. Youel, board member, and George Newcom, business manager for the board, were named by President George Wells as a committee to direct any necessary remodeling and furnishing of the room. The furniture will cost in the neighborhood of $150. Mrs. Ball indicated.

A pot luck dinner is to be given by the Parent-Teacher club tomorrow night at the Jefferson school, to which Mrs. Ball invited the board. The board also has been invited to a dinner on December 11 at 5 p. m. to be given by the P. T. A. of the Woodrow Wilson school.

GAS SERVICE
through GUN barrels

LONDON in 1813. A blacksmith laboriously joining old gun barrels to make the first pipeline for gas! . . . Today, California alone has gas pipelines which, end to end, would reach around the world. And progress has brought modern gas appliances for cooking, water heating, house-heating—even refrigeration!

That you may enjoy these comforts and conveniences for a few cents a day, California gas companies have invested more than two hundred million dollars.

Serving millions of consumers and employing ten thousand people, these companies make constant use of Bank of America's statewide service. District offices in many cities deposit funds in 171 branches of this Bank.

Prompt transfer of these funds simplifies accounting, saves time and interest. Large sums are placed in circulation for productive use: new construction, wages, supplies and taxes.

These nine great public utilities judge a bank by their own high standards of financial strength, conservative management and service. Does not their choice suggest Bank of America as a good bank for you?

ASSISTANT TO SCHOOL BOARD AUDITOR NAMED

Edward B. Riniker, 24, of 1424 North Broadway was appointed by the board of education last night as assistant auditor in the Santa Ana school system at a salary of $100 a month. Riniker who will work under the direction of Auditor E. D. Baynton, will be in charge of a large number of isolated school accounts which will be handled together for the purpose of convenience.

According to Dr. Percy R. Davis, school superintendent, who recommended creation of the position and appointment of Riniker, it is expected that the change will result in a saving of about $3000 annually chiefly through elimination of a number of part time employees.

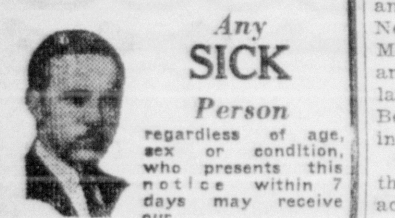

There were two other applicants for the position, both from men who have had years of experience. One applicant, however, would not accept less than $150 a month. Dr. Davis said. The wife of the other is a teacher in the school system here. Riniker is a graduate of the Santa Ana Junior college and the University of Southern California, where he specialized in accounting. He has had one year of practical experience.

TEACHERS TO HEAR N. E. A. PRESIDENT

Miss Florence M. Hale, president of the National Education association, will address the Elementary Principals' association of California, meeting in connection with the California Teachers' institute, to be held in Los Angeles during the week of December 14. The gathering will be held in the auditorium of the law building of the University of Southern California at 9:30 a. m.

Miss Hale's topic will be "Making Teaching a Cheerful Profession." A luncheon session will be held at 12:15 p. m. in the Student Union building across the street. Misses Charl Williams, field secretary of the N. E. A. and formerly president, will be the speaker.

Repair Shops To Be Installed In Old Junior High

That it would be inadvisable to move the old Frances Willard Junior High school shop building on Church street between Main and Sycamore streets was reported to the board of education last night by Rolla R. Hays, board member, who had investigated the feasibility of transferring the structure to the site of the present school administration building on North Main street.

The board had discussed moving the building in connection with a plan to use it for housing the repair shops now located under the bleachers at the high school. This change will be made, however, leaving the building on its present site.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO SARAH GRAHAM

Mrs. Sarah A. Graham, 72, and a resident of Santa Ana for the past 40 years was found dead in bed early this morning as a result of a heart attack. She had been afflicted by a heart ailment for some time but had not been confined to her bed. Death occurred at the home of Mrs. W. M. Nelson, 824 East Fourth street, where the deceased had made her home for the last five years.

In addition to nieces and nephews living in Los Angeles and Southern California she is survived by a half-brother whose home is in West Virginia and several nieces and nephews living in the east. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Smith and Tuttle's mortuary later.

JOHN C. COPELAND RITES THURSDAY

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for John C. Copeland, 71, who died yesterday at his home in Balboa. Services will be held at Groom's Funeral home in Costa Mesa, with the Rev. A. F. Hasse officiating. Interment will be in Central Memorial park.

Copeland, who was a retired resort operator at Lake Tahoe, had lived for several years at Balboa and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie Copeland; one daughter, Mrs. May Leight, Los Angeles, and three brothers, David M. Copeland, Balboa, William, of Long Beach, and Alexander, who lives in Texas.

He was a veteran member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and active in the work of that order.

Two Arrested On Liquor Charges

William F. Crumb, 42, a carpenter residing at Balboa, was arrested on the Coast highway early last night by D. D. Adams, members of the California Highway patrol, who brought the man to jail here where he is booked on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Gabriel Zelazar, arrested at the same time, was lodged in jail on a drunk charge by the officer.

D. A. V. SERVICE TOMORROW FOR W. J. MURPHY

Last rites for W. J. Murphy, former Santa Ana business man and past national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, will be held Friday at the Delmar Smith mortuary in Los Angeles. Former comrades of Murphy's, members of the Jack Fisher chapter, D. A. V. however will pay their last respects to their departed comrade tomorrow night between 6 and 8 o'clock, when the body will lie in state at Patriotic hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, Los Angeles. Services of the Disabled American Veterans will be conducted at this time.

Murphy, who was 44 years old, succumbed yesterday following a heart attack. He had been in ill health for the past 10 years and at the time of the fatal attack was convalescing from pneumonia. His illness dated back to the days of the World war when he suffered an attack of heart disease while encamped with his infantry regiment in Georgia. He was a native of Boston and came to Los Angeles in 1922. Later he moved to Santa Ana and was operating the Santa Ana hotel here when he was elected national commander of the Disabled American Veterans in 1927.

Upon the expiration of his term of office he became interested in various relief campaigns for disabled veterans and served on many national committees. Murphy was well known in Los Angeles where he formerly had conducted several hotels prior to moving to this city. Recently he had been at Carlsbad where he operated the California Carlsbad hotel as owner-manager.

He is survived by his widow and one son in Los Angeles and his parents in Boston. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Frank Irwin, commander of Sawtelle Chapter, D. A. V., and Charles C. Morrison, state commander.

NERVOUS AS JURY OUT; CHANGES PLEA

Jess Young, Tulare man, who was arrested in San Clemente several weeks ago, and three charges placed against him, found that the deliberations of the jury in his case here late yesterday, worried him considerably, so—

While the jury was out discussing his case, he changed his mind, entered a plea to reckless driving—that being the charge on which he was being tried—and the jury was recalled. The jury had been out five hours when Young changed his mind, and it was 9 o'clock last night when the decision was made.

Young was supposed to come up in the San Clemente court for trial, but asked for a change of venue and the case was brought here.

A charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was continued last night until March 8, 1932, and a charge of possession of liquor, which also had been filed against the man, was dismissed at the motion of the district attorney.

On the plea of guilty in the reckless driving case, Young was promptly handed a fine of $250 by Justice Kenneth Morrison.

WYOMING STUDENTS WILL GET HEARING

LARAMIE, Wyo., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Wyoming university students, who struck for the privilege of private petting yesterday, folded up their tents and silently stole back to class today.

Police of Laramie guarded the campus to prevent outbreaks as the abortive strike ended.

The students were assured a hearing before the board of trustees a week from tomorrow on their demand that Dr. A. Crane, president of the university, apologize for the way in which he interfered with collegiate love-making during an intermission at a university dance last Friday night.

The assurance was given the students by President William Lynn of the board. Dr. Crane remained steadfast in his refusal to apologize for making an inspection tour of parked automobiles and of making pointed remarks to the petters he found inside.

Woman Is Free Of Theft Charge

Mrs. Frances Estelle Viehlig, New York woman, arrested in Hollywood several days ago on a charge of grand theft in connection with the asserted theft of a fur coat from the Olive Dulling Fur shop in Santa Ana, was freed in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today at the motion of the district attorney's office and at the request of the complaining witness.

It was understood Mrs. Viehlig had recovered the coat alleged to have been stolen here several months ago and therefore did not press the charge against the woman.

Mrs. Viehlig was being held in the county jail until today on failure to make bail of $5000 which had been demanded in her case.

Court Notes

Mary Grace Deakins has filed suit for divorce from Grover C. Deakins, in superior court here. The complaint contains an accusation that Deakins failed to provide for his children. The couple married in 1917 and separated on January 29, 1931, the complaint said. Mrs. Deakins asked custody of four minor children and $100 a month for their support.

Doris Miller, minor daughter of James F. Miller, has brought suit in superior court against Dr. W. E. Wallace, seeking $6500 damages for injuries received when the physician's car is asserted to have run over her while she was crossing Gurnsey street 75 feet north of Russell street. The accident happened on September 21, according to the complaint, which also said the car dragged the girl 25 or 30 feet. Suit was brought through James Miller as guardian ad litem.

R. M. Buchanan, charged with forgery of a $6.10 check with the name of H. B. Anderson, was on trial before a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court today. Buchanan was defended by Attorney Robert E. Allen while the prosecution was handled by Dis-

DRINK CRAZED MAN SUBDUED BY POLICE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—After a battle of more than an hour with 15 detectives, armed with machine guns and tear bombs, an alleged drink-crazed gunman was arrested in a downtown hotel room today.

He was believed to have shot one man, Fred Knukle, in the leg and fired at several others during a brief, mad career of gunplay in downtown Los Angeles.

The prisoner gave the name of Frank White. He was charged with robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, and drunkenness. Police said they found jewelry and clothing and a large sum of money on White's person and in his room.

White fled to his room, police said, after firing at two persons on the street. Two detectives nearby in a police car heard the shots and pursued White, who fired twice at them on the stairway. The detectives telephoned for help and two squads were sent. White firing at them from a window as they surrounded the hotel.

PROMINENT ATHLETE DRIVES CAR IN BAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Hundreds of ferry passengers stood electrified as a ferry slip here today as Walter Coffey, 26, prominent California athlete and son of the late banker, Lorenzo R. Coffey, drove his speeding car into San Francisco bay.

His body was recovered three hours later.

Mystery veils the death dash of young Coffey, who was a noted athlete at the College of the Pacific and was a member of the Olympic club.

At the time his wife, the former Parmel Gruss, was at the home of his mother, recovering from a major operation. The young Coffey lived at Burlingame, whence she had come for the operation.

The widow said his death must have been accidental.

2 Injured As 3 Machines Collide

Two persons were slightly injured at 9 o'clock last night when three cars collided at Walnut street and Broadway.

Miss Dorothy Grizley, of 1302 North Garnsey street, suffered cuts on her head and Louise Marshall, of 1115 South Main street, was slightly cut and bruised when the Grizley machine collided with a car driven by Farris Glover, of Santa Ana route No. 2. The Glover car then ran into a machine driven by Mrs. C. J. White, of 4345 East Sixtieth street, Maywood, it was reported.

District Attorney Sam L. Collins and Assistant District Attorney S. B. Kaufman.

Citrus, Avocado Land Purchased

A number of sales of citrus and avocado land have been made by Orange Park Acres, Inc., whose tract is situated about four miles from the city of Orange. One sale made the past week was to W. J. Morrison, of Salt Lake City, who purchased eight acres of land set to two-year-old valencias at a cost of $12,000.

R. C. Wolfe, of Los Angeles, bought avocado acreage at a cost of $300 and C. G. Dorman, of Groveland, Calif., a similar tract for $3710, according to Frank F. Mead Jr., secretary of the company.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT BY BAND TONIGHT

The Christmas concert will be given by the Santa Ana Municipal band in front of the city hall tonight from 6 to 7:30 p. m.

The program consists of numbers in harmony with the Christmas holiday, although some of the numbers are in more classic style. As special request D. C. Cianfoni, director of the band, will play "The Holy City," by Adams. Other numbers which characterize the Christmas spirit are "Babes in Toyland," "The Parade of the Tin Soldiers," "The Skaters Waltz," "The Babylon" by Musso will be played for the first time in Santa Ana.

The personnel of the band for tonight's concert shows an increase in membership as several young local musicians have been added to the roster. The new members appearing on tonight's concert are Harold Lutes, Robert Kelly, Owen Owens, Kenneth Nasler, Thomas Flippin, Donald Smiley, and Hugh McMillan.

FINED $200 ON LIQUOR CHARGE

S. L. Ambrose, 71, Garden Grove man, arrested Monday night by sheriff's officers on a charge of possession of liquor, pleaded guilty to the charge in Judge Charles Kuehler's court today and was fined $200.

Ambrose was arrested after officers raided his home and reported they found 52 gallons of wine and approximately 250 bottles of beer.

INDEBTEDNESS OF STATE WILL BE 5 MILLIONS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Starting with a surplus of $29,000,000, the present state administration will finish its first two years with an indebtedness of $5,750,000, it was predicted today by State Controller Ray L. Riley.

The controller, in his annual summary of general fund conditions, estimated that the state will spend nearly $25,000,000 more than it receives during the 1931-32 biennium.

The four main sources of revenue were greatly reduced by the depression, Riley said, and will probably show a decrease of $17,000,000 over the preceding two years.

These sources, and the losses estimated by the state controller, are as follows:

Public utility and insurance taxes, $4,241,788.92; bank and corporation franchise taxes, $3,429,245.79; inheritance taxes, $7,382,802.05, and interest on bank deposits $2,050,170.91.

"Total revenue for the present biennium, including the main sources of revenue mentioned, are estimated to be $117,805,768.49," said Riley. "With general fund assets of $40,359,696.51 as of July 1, 1931, the total available assets for the two years ending June 30, 1933, is brought to $158,115,465."

"Appropriations and fixed charges for the same period amount to $163,883,105.86, or $5,764,619.86 more than the probable assets and revenues."

ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE

M. O. Hall, 20, Buena Park resident, was taken into custody last night by sheriff's officers on a charge of issuing a fictitious check. He was lodged in the county jail and San Diego officers notified of his arrest. Hall was arrested at the request of San Diego officers, where a warrant has been procured against the man, it was reported.

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER IS ON TUSTIN HOUR

In keeping with their plan of presenting guest speakers on their Thursday broadcasts, Dr. Edward Lee Russell, director of the division of child hygiene of the Orange county health department, will speak during the Tustin High school hour tomorrow morning on "Preparing for Tomorrow's World Today."

Tustin High school has been keeping abreast of the times, according to station officials, with their programs of current interest which are broadcast by direct wire over KREG every school day from 11 to 11:30 a. m.

Cannon's Famous Sticker Program Scheduled Tonight

Once again the week has rolled around to Wednesday night when Art Cannon, popular KREG pianist, presents his "Sticker Program."

This unique feature is offered Southern California listeners from the Santa Ana station every Wednesday night, beginning at 7 o'clock, and during the half hour the radio station's telephone rings continuously with requests from interested enthusiasts.

The first person who "sticks" Art Cannon, by telephoning in a request that he does not know or cannot play, will receive a valuable prize from the Woodruff-Granas jewelry company of this city.

KREG NOTES

The program director regrets to report that Jean Baldwin, popular J. C. co-ed, who has been entertaining with Verna May Helm, was injured in an automobile accident and is confined to her home. It is expected that she will recover soon.

E. W. Buck's Moose Orchestra will entertain for an hour tonight, beginning at 10 o'clock. Their program will be broadcast by direct wire from the Moose hall.

Juanita Grohs, "Blues Melodist," is building a considerable audience with her delightful interpretations of popular numbers. She entertains every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 3 p. m.

A program of selected semi-classics is scheduled at 6:45 this evening, at which time several old favorites, both compositions and composers, will be offered.

BANQUET PLANNED

Mexican Adult Education Program on Air

Another interesting and enlightening program conducted by Mrs. A. T. Bethencourt is scheduled for this evening under the heading of Mexican Adult Education. The program begins at 8:30 o'clock.

These half-hour broadcasts are presented every Wednesday night by the department of adult education of the Santa Ana city school of which Mrs. Golden Weston is the director. The students assist in the presentations and the broadcast is received in the various classrooms of the local schools. Educational talks, in Spanish, and excellent music are the usual offerings during this period.

BUSINESS MEN OF BEACH CITY HOLD ELECTION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 9.—The Business Men's association elected officers at the meeting held last night at the Fifth Street Dining room. The following were chosen: Jack Robertson, president; C. G. Ward, vice president; R. G. Miller, secretary.

A resolution was adopted commending the city for the settlement of the beach front title suit and pledging support to the council for any plan the council might adopt toward permanent improvement of the beach. J. H. Macklin and C. G. Ward made talks urging early commencement of beach improvements. W. R. Osborn stated that the title to the beach would not be acquired until about January 1 and that improvement plans would have to wait until then.

Jack Robertson, chairman of the Christmas program to be given in the business district, reported that 45 merchants had agreed to place illuminated Christmas trees in front of their stores and the city had agreed to furnish the lights. R. C. Turner was made chairman of the Santa Claus committee.

B. T. Mollica commended the council for its program for opening Huntington avenue through to the coast. A committee consisting of B. T. Mollica, Elvin Milbrat and T. R. Canady was named to help promote the project.

It was voted to send a letter of regret and good wishes to William Adair, who has left Huntington Beach to engage in business in San Clemente. The Rev. John Engle was made an honorary member of the association.

Those present were J. S. Farquhar, A. H. Dixon, Elvin Milbrat, W. S. Warner, T. R. Canady, John H. Engle, Jack Robertson, Richard G. Miller, Willis Osborn, J. H. Macklin, B. T. Mollica, J. H. Eader, C. G. Ward, R. C. Turner.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Wells B. McCoy and family left Westminster Monday for their new home at Fontana, where they are to reside on their 20-acre citrus ranch, which they acquired in exchange for Long Beach property.

Hollis Fitz, who is principal of the Fountain Valley school, was given medical care Monday for an injured ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Day were in Corona Sunday visiting Mr. Day's brother, Floyd Day, and wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Day.

The Presbyterian church ball team won by a 6-4 score in a game played Saturday evening at the Santa Ana "Y" against the team of the First Christian church. The local team was composed of Nelson Morgan, Charles Parr, Richard Adamson, Boyd Wells and Charles Anderson. Bud Hare and Joe Josack are coaching and managing the team. They play a game next Saturday evening with another Santa Ana group at the Y. M. C. A.

Local friends will be interested to learn of new arrivals in the homes of three former residents. Mr. and Mrs. Clair Wardlow are the parents of a seven and a half pound daughter, born Saturday night at a Long Beach hospital. Mr. and Mrs. William Cozad Jr. have an eight and a half pound son, born Sunday afternoon at the Newport Beach hospital. Word has been received of a new arrival in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beach, of Long Beach. Mrs. Beach will be remembered here as Miss Vivian Rich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rich, former residents of Seventeenth street.

JUVENILES TO GIVE SPECIAL KREG PROGRAM

The children's program tonight under the direction of Lorene Croddy, will feature 8 year old Nye James Martin, a talented little singer from Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Miss Croddy says that Nye is known to many people of Santa Ana, having sung for the D. A. V. at the K. P. hall, the Men's Community Bible class, the Christian church and the Fox West Coast theater. The little artist is a singer of popular songs.

Wesley Plis-ar, 9 years of age, will entertain with songs and readings. Wesley, who hails from Tustin, is a well known in local music circles and to his many friends who have heard him before from KREG. Miss Croddy will read another of the interesting "Uncle Remus Stories."

The Children's Program begins at 6 o'clock.

SILVER ACRES

SILVER ACRES, Dec. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Berry entertained with a turkey dinner Sunday, the following guests: Mrs. P. G. Ashton and son, George, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rathbone and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rathbone, of Taft; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Weller and sons, Russell and Paul, and daughter, Ruth, of Pomona; Mr. Charlie Frank and Mrs. Harold Jolly, of Taft. The Silver Acres Women's club met at the home of Mrs. Grace Neff in Bolca with Mrs. Alta Neff, Parched or toasted? No, sir! CAMELS are FRESH!

THE bedrock of Camel popularity is the inherently fine quality of the tobaccos that go into our cigarette.

These tobaccos are notably mild, full-mellow, delicately flavored by nature—the finest Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos that money can buy.

To safeguard the essential goodness of these fine tobaccos we exercise every care to conserve their natural moisture and natural flavors.

They are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say Camels are made fresh to start with—and why the Camel Humidor Pack can bring them fresh to you, in prime smoking condition.

If you want to know what a blessing that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to Camels for just one day—then leave them—if you can.

AUSTRALIAN WONDER HORSE TO RUN AT AGUA CALIENTE

Phar Lap, Australian "wonder horse," with jockey J. E. Pike aboard, Phar Lap, already winner of more than $250,000 in racing purses, has been entered in the Agua Caliente Handicap and will leave Melbourne for the border track early in January, according to present plans. Phar Lap can run on any kind of track and with any kind of poundage. He has carried 150 pounds and still won.

By NEA Service

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Dec. 9.—A new horse travel record will be made in January, it seems certain now, when a race horse comes all the way from Australia—6700 miles by water—to compete in a handicap.

"What a horse!" shouts all Australian sportsmen.

"And don't fall to back him!" they assure their American friends. The horse in question is Phar Lap, a gigantic chestnut gelding. He's pretty much a divinity with the turf followers of the Antipodes. And when it comes to miracles—D. J. Davis acquired the New Zealand horse for 140 guineas—or about $700. . . . To date, his winnings are over $250,000.

The big gelding is rising five years. His two-year-old debut was creditable.

In his third year, he won the Rosenthal Guineas, Australian Jockey Club Derby, Victoria St. Leger and the Australian Jockey Club St. Leger.

His most notable triumph was a four-year-old was the Melbourne Cup, over a two mile course. He did this with the tremendous burden of 151 pounds—and won the race by three lengths, too. In June he defeated that great horse, The Dimmer, in two miles at the Sydney weight-for-age event—and carried 22 pounds over scale.

Around 100,000 pounds was wagered against Phar Lap in the 1926 Melbourne Cup. And the morning of the race, a gunman in ambush fired several shots at him. None affected either horse or rider and that afternoon the heavily weighted Phar Lap ran to victory.

"He's much too big to be a pretty horse," comments Owner Davis, "but you should see him run."

Descriptions liken Phar Lap to Extremator, who often was referred to as "Old Bones."

CRACK GOLFERS IN LAKE MERCED GOLF

LAKE MERCED COUNTRY CLUB, SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—With 200 of the nation's leading golfers competing, qualifying play began today for the second annual national match play open championship which starts here Friday.

The qualifier was to be over the 36-hole route, with 18 holes of medal play today and 18 tomorrow.

Among those starting early were such notable golfers as Billy Burke, National Open champion; Gene Sarazen, veteran of the links; Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio, runner up for the National T. G. A. title; Charlie Seaver, holder of the P. G. A. title; Walter Hagen, Canadian Open champion, and many others.

Leo "Elbows" Delgado captured the match play open crown last year and was not required to play in the qualifier.

HARRIS SIGNS NEW DETROIT CONTRACT

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Stanley (Bucky) Harris has signed a one-year contract to manage the Detroit Tigers next season.

With his signature on a contract, the last of the 16 major league club managers was placed for next year. Harris' three-year contract with the Tigers as manager-player expired last October. The new contract is as manager only.

Grove Holds County Loop 'B' Tourney

Eight Orange County league schools will be represented in the second annual Class B basketball tournament, which opens tomorrow in the Garden Grove high school gymnasium.

Opening games pair Tustin and Anaheim, Garden Grove and Huntington Beach, Newport Harbor and Brea-Olinda, and Orange and San Juan Capistrano. First round contests begin at 2:15 p. m.

The four winners will automatically enter the second round Friday, while the four losers will clash in a consolation round.

The two survivors in each division tangle Saturday at 7 p. m.

NEW PADDOCK COMEBACK ONLY PUBLICITY GAG?

BY HENRY McLEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(UP)—One of these days one of our better athletes, after many years of participation in sports is going to rise up on his ancient toes and through his flowing beard announce that his best days are gone forever, and his further efforts on his part would be ridiculous. And to make the whole thing remarkable, he is going to mean what he says.

This announcement probably won't come in our time for this seems to be the day of athletes who just won't quit until they are unable to lift a fist, kick a ball, smack one as far as third base, or run a step. When that stage is reached it is customary for the athlete to retire until nearly forgotten and then come booming out of nowhere for a series of senseless comebacks.

Charley Changes Mind

There profound thoughts are prompted by reports that Charley Paddock, the original "fastest human," "human bullet," "speed merchant," "human whirlwind" and "human everything else," plans to take another fling at running. Paddock says with a little turning up he could still churn 50 yards behind in less time than to run from the kitchen to the front porch.

This makes the 99th comeback we have this season. Like most of the others it probably will fail. Paddock probably knows this, I say that because I have a clipping of an article written by Charley in 1929, in which he explained his reason for retiring from competition.

"There is no use denying it," Charley wrote three years ago, "I have passed my prime so far as sprinting is concerned. . . . Age has made me inconsistent in my track performances. . . . It is time to stop before the sports followers start saying, 'He was a good boy in his day, but he is only a relic now.'"

Dempsey's Case Different

So here we have another old time champion who, although he knows he ain't what he used to be, insists on coming back. Why do they do it? Well, there must be 50 reasons. With Benny Leonard, it was a combination of the need for cash and a sneaking idea that the old master, despite a banker's waistline, still

Saints Begin Work For Title Game

ENTIRE TROUPE IN GOOD SHAPE FOR BIG DRIVE

Inaugurated by a two-day vacation from the football wars, Coach "Tex" Oliver's undefeated Santa Ana Saints resumed practice today for their next, last and most important game of an amazing season.

Whether it be Covina or San Luis Obispo as opposition in the Southern California championship conflict December 19, the Saints will be adequately prepared for the major test.

Physically, they will be in their finest condition of the entire autumnal campaign. In all other ways, especially mentally, Coach Oliver intends his disciples will be "set" too. As tickler for preparation, Oliver does not want anything undone that might cause mortification in the Coliseum one week from Saturday. So all efforts this and next week will be bent toward having Santa Ana at its peak for the titular scrimmage.

Earle Harris, Earl Halderman and "Twenty Grand" Cleveland, outstanding cripples, reported for work this afternoon as good as new. So will everybody else on the roster, including even Quimby Wallace, one of Oliver's best reserve guards, who has been out of commission with the mumps and saw his first action in weeks in the last moments of the recent Santa Monica triumph.

Today's drill was the first for Santa Ana since the Saints beat the Vikings, 26-7, in their first championship play-off game. The men were in top form for a brief period Monday but merely for the purpose of "looking pretty" for photographers. They did not even report at all yesterday. This was their first vacation of the whole season.

Coach Oliver frankly admits he does not intend to put his players through the mill this or next week.

"We're about ready," he put it. "We've got to brush up on our fundamentals and work on some plays that we've been a bit poor on at times. But now that all the boys are in good shape again we're not going to take a chance of getting any of 'em hurt for the championship game. We want to throw our entire strength at the winner of the Covina-San Luis Obispo game."

FORDHAM FOOTBALL PLAYER NEAR DEATH

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(UP)—John Szymanski, Fordham football tackle, continued in a grave condition today from injuries received in the Bucknell game Nov. 21.

Hospital authorities reported there was no change in the athlete's condition during the past 12 hours following his slight rally early last night. Szymanski's injury was diagnosed as a subluxation of the spine. His left side is paralyzed, except for the tips of his fingers.

Szymanski was taken to the hospital after he collapsed on the football field.

Garland Is Named As Grand Marshal

PASADENA, Dec. 9.—(UP)—To honor his enterprise in bringing the Olympic Games to Los Angeles, William W. Garland, 10th Olympic committee president, received appointment today as grand marshal of the 1932 Tournament of Roses parade.

could show the kids how to box, think and hit all at the same time. This combination usually is at the bottom of all ring comebacks, including Dempsey's.

Dempsey's case is a little different, however. Jack, the most restless creature under the sun, craves action 24 hours out of the 24, and he finds the ring offers just about that.

Then there's the craving for the spotlight—a craving created when the horse's names and faces were as familiar as that of the president. Don't let anybody tell you the sports big shots don't love adoration. It annoys 'em sometimes, sure, but not half so much as the absence of it.

I am probably a scoundrel to mention it, but the fact Paddock is something of an author may have something to do with his announcement. The more his name is mentioned, the better his stuff sells. If such is the case Charley, list me as sucker No. 1. I bit to the extent of 450 words. Count 'em!

Rain Delays Workout For Georgia Boys

PASADENA, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Georgia's football team hoped for sunshine today in which to practice for their contest with the Trojans of U. S. C. in Los Angeles Saturday.

Arriving here yesterday afternoon, they donned their suits and went forth to work out in a heavy rain, disappointed in the weather, but determined to lose no opportunity to practice.

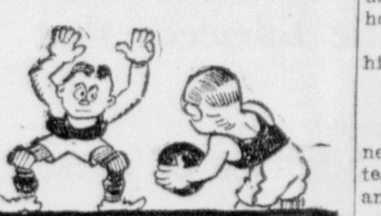

Coach Harry Mehr brought 26 players with him to tackle the men of Troy. They will work out here today and tomorrow, then go to Los Angeles Friday for practice on the Olympic stadium field, scene of Saturday's game.

SAINTS BEATEN IN FIRST CAGE CONTEST, 27-16

Taking up from where it left off last season, Santa Ana high school's basketball squad dropped a 27-16 decision to a scrappy bunch of Brea-Olinda Wildcats here yesterday. This was the first of a series of bucket campaigns for both squads.

Alex Clark, Bob Wimbush, Frank Clark, Clair Preininger and Lloyd Kneeland, Saint first stringers, wasted no time rolling up eight digits while Brea-Olinda's only pair of points came on free shots. Preininger was the big noise in this frame, making three field goals and turning in some nice defensive work. Alex Clark turned in the other score on a setup.

At the start of the second frame Coach Bill Cook sent in a set of reserves which was a signal for Wall and Henigan, Brea forward and center to get "hot" and sink a few so that by half-time the score was 11-11.

The third session was fairly even with Brea taking the lead by one digit as the result of two difficult shots by Stives and Hodges and a converted gift toss by Cannon. Preininger and Clark again scored for the Saints.

Reynolds, Wall, Hammer, Hammer and Swingle chalked up tallies in quick succession to sew up the game during the early part of the last quarter while Santa Ana could score but once, on a free toss.

Wall and Preininger divided scoring honors for the afternoon, each having 7 digits to his credit. Hammer was second with 6. Alex Clark and Wimbush sparkled on offense while Lloyd Kneeland turned in some nice work on defense.

TROJAN THIMBLEFULLS

BY AL WESSON

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, Dec. 9.—Letter carriers in the University of Southern California district are getting warmed up for their Christmas rush by hauling in fan mail to some of the Trojan football stars since their recent victories over Notre Dame and Washington.

To date Johnny Baker has the prize. It is from a downtrodden freshman in a southern university who tells John how mean the upper class sorority sisters are—why they even make her carry their books and keep her from having boy friends. She says John could be so nice and help her out by maybe writing her a letter—and perhaps he could send her a picture too—and in addition he could even write something on the picture—you know, something nice.

For such a plaintive plea, big-hearted Johnny is going even farther. He is sending her a picture of the team, inscribed "With love from Johnny, Gus, Stan, Orv, Erv and the whole Trojan squad." That ought to make the little gal a big shot and keep the letters from being mean to her, the old baddie!

Erny Pinckert was never so "fired up" in all his life as he was for the Washington game last Saturday. Remembering that he was injured for the first and only time in his life in the Husky game last year and left in poor condition for the Notre Dame contest that followed, he was set

BIERMAN CALM CENTER OF TULANE'S GRID HURRICANE

This smiling family group is that of Bernard William Bierman, the Bernie Bierman who guides Tulane university football teams to Dixie championships year after year. In the group, left to right, are William Ashley Bierman, 8; Mrs. Bierman, who was Clara Louise MacKenzie, beautiful Minnesota co-ed when she met the Minnesota football star who became her husband; Bernie Bierman, the south's most sensational grid mentor, and James MacKenzie Bierman, 5, who wears a scar on his nose in this picture, the result of a neighborhood football game.

Coach of Green Wave Rescued From Bond Business to Enter Football Professionally; He Scorns 'Fight Talk' Before All Games

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9.—Ingelouise MacKenzie of Havre, Mont., the heart of every hurricane, scents tell us, is a spot of complete calm. They must be right.

In Dixie football for three years Tulane has seemed a hurricane of football genius, losing one game out of 30.

In the heart of this hurricane the spot of complete calm is Bernie Bierman, Tulane coach.

Who is Bierman? How does he get that way? Those are some of the questions you hear these days, when football is the red-hot topic in Dixie. Well—

He's the coach who never loses his temper.

He never raises his voice.

He never sheds a tear.

He never appeals to sentiment; never plays emotional tricks on his team; never begs them to go out and die for dear old Alma Mater.

He's the coach who never has dropped a man from his squad.

Calm, low-voiced, quiet, self-possessed, reticent, friendly, Bernie Bierman has gone his way through life. These qualities are his fundamental philosophy of living.

They made him one of the greatest athletes in the northwest and a middle west. They made him a good business man. They made him a captain of the United States marines. Now they have made him one of the outstanding football coaches of the United States.

He was born on a little Minnesota farm near Springfield, March 11, 1894. They christened him Bernard William. His grandparents had come from Germany. Bierman got his first taste of football in the Litchfield high school in 1912 he entered the University of Minnesota.

In his sophomore year, at an M. club dance, he met Miss Clara of football.

"America's football fields seem to me to be what the Sandy Hook Proving Grounds are to the armed forces of the United States," he says quietly. "They're the proving grounds of American youth. On a football field a boy learns his strength and his weakness as he can learn it nowhere else. He can develop his strength; he can build intelligently against his weaknesses.

"That's why I've never dropped a boy off any squad I was coaching. As long as a boy is willing to subject himself to football discipline, and come out and work; as long as he'll stay with me, I'll stay with him. There's many a boy warns the bench at every game played while he's in college, who does his starring in life after graduation on what he got as a football scrub.

"My system? Football fundamentals first. I believe in all the power you can put into football plays. By that I mean that I never coach a team in trick plays that will mean costly losses if they are smothered.

"The teams I've coached have made their best gains from tackle to tackle. These take plenty of power and speed, and they make substantial gains when they click. I believe in deception wherever it will work. You've got to have a well-drilled, intelligent team though, when you start shooting deceptive plays at the other fellow. Fast, too.

"But all the speed you can get with plenty of power, has always seemed the best football to me.

"Above all, I want any team I coach to go out on the field cool and calm and collected, with their brains working.

"I never made an emotional speech in my life to a team, either before a game or between the halves.

"I'd probably break down and laugh at myself in the middle of one of these impassioned dressing-room speeches I hear about."

Before the game with Vander-

Dick Hanley Picks Seven Grid Stars

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Dick Hanley, Northwestern university football coach, today had selected seven of 11 middleweight players who will comprise part of the eastern team to play at the annual East-West Shrine charity game at San Francisco New Year's Day.

Hanley, coach of the Eastern squad with Andy Kerr of Colgate, named "Reb" Russell, fullback, and Marvill, tackle of Northwestern; Miller, center, and Purvis, halfback, of Purdue; Haubrich, Ohio State, tackle; Teeter, Minnesota, end, and Hewitt, end and fullback, Michigan. Russell played in only two games this season because of injuries.

The completed middleweight squad will meet with an eastern eleven picked by Kerr at Dyche stadium here December 19 for the first workout.

JAYCEE CAGERS BEGIN SEASON HERE TONIGHT

Basketball fans will be given their first "look-in" on Santa Ana junior college's next conference entry here tonight when Coach Bill Foote send his Don cagers against the Little Clotters of Anaheim in Andrews gymnasium at 8 p. m.

Although catching Santa Ana with only one week of preparation, the main purpose of the practice game is to point out the weak points which seldom occur during everyday drill.

Experimenting with various combinations, Coach Foote will give every deserving candidate an opportunity. Russell Sullivan, "Hen" Thery, Leo Gaspar, Lecl Slaback, Dwayne Robinson, Earl Scott, Carl Schoenberg, Earl Homan, Ed Bragg, Hoffman Hurley and Al Porcay are all in line to see action at forward, with probably Sullivan and Thery, two red-heads, in the starting lineup.

Fred Brooks, Emmett Seacord, and Ellwood Lindley will be available at center, with either Brooks or Seacord getting the nod. Lindley plays running guard equally well, and his basket-hitting ability insures him a place in the starting lineup. Lindley rates on a par with Seacord and Brooks at the tip-off position, but the latter two candidates are both good, and since Foote is shy on good guards, Lindley probably will play running guard all season. If Sullivan or Thery fail to function, Lindley may go to forward.

Jimmie Hall and Mike Santa Cruz, 1931 football captain and former cage star at Orange, appear as outstanding candidates to team with Lindley at guard. Hall probably will start. Other promising guards who undoubtedly will see service are Hideo Hirasaki, Jack O'Mara, Wayne Bartholomew, James Daneri, Horace Rittner and Bill Leonard. Adam Lehr, although not reporting regularly for drill this week, may see action tonight.

blitz recently the Tulane team had got all worked up by itself. Somebody tore open the dressing-room door, slammed it back, and the Tulane team started to race at top speed for the field. Show them a Vanderbilt guy they could tear apart from limb to limb!

The voice of Coach Bierman roared "Halt!" Every last young Tulane maniac halted, too.

"Come back here," said Bernie Bierman. "You walk out onto that field," said Bernie Bierman. "Do your warming up out there. Calm down, now! Keep your brains quiet. Your legs will take care of themselves."

Tulane walked out, calmly, quietly, to a 19-0 victory that upset the dope of many experts.

2 Navy Backs Out Of Army Struggle

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Quarterback Bert Davis and Fullback Campbell are on the injured list and probably will not be able to start in the Navy backfield against Army Saturday.

Sammie Moncre and Tom Hurley are being groomed to replace the injured men.

CARDINALS GET SUSPENDED CUB FENCE-BUSTER

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—"Hack" Wilson, Chicago Cub outfielder and the highest salaried player in the National league last year, was traded today to the St. Louis Cardinals for Burleigh Grimes, veteran pitcher. With Wilson the Cubs included "Bud" Teachout, a youthful pitcher.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—"Hack" Wilson, deposed home run king of the National league, today wasslated to wear the uniform of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals next season.

The Chicago Cubs today had three offers for Wilson, with every indication that the Cardinals' proposition would be accepted.

The Cards, it was said on reliable authority, had offered the Cubs either George Watkins, or Ernie Orsatti, outfielders, for Wilson and a small sum of cash. If the Cubs refuse either Watkins or Orsatti, it was said that they can have Burleigh Grimes, world series pitching hero, for Wilson and a large sum of cash.

The Boston Braves also have made an offer for Wilson, but want a guarantee that Wilson's physical condition is good and that his eyesight is not impaired. The Cubs refuse to give any such guarantee.

The Cincinnati Reds also have made an offer for Wilson but it contains a provisional clause which does not meet with the approval of Manager Rogers Hornsby.

Wilson dropped from a .356 hitter in 1930 to a .241 hitter in 1931, and wound up the season in suspension. He drew a salary of $37,500 last season, the highest paid of any National league player except Hornsby, who is under a player-manager contract. If the Cardinals get Wilson, his salary probably will be slashed to $10,000 or $12,000.

Not a single trade was made during the opening day's session of the majors yesterday, but several managers announced the players they were bidding for.

the contemplated move of the majors to restrict or ban radio broadcasting during 1932 was blocked when "certain clubs" signed radio contracts for the next late Monday.

The American league voted to prohibit any radio contracts being made for 1933 before the two majors have held their joint meeting next December.

Smith Wins From Casanova In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Harry Smith, 166 pounds, who claims the world's middleweight title, was given a decisive victory over Casanova, 171, at Olympic stadium last night. They fought ten rounds.

Late News From Orange County Communities

Reciprocity Day Program Presented By Brea Club

SOUTH AMERICA DISCUSSED BY L. A. SPEAKER

BREA, Dec. 9.—Despite the inclemency of the weather more than 65 members and guests of the Brea Woman's club gathered yesterday afternoon in the club rooms here for the Reciprocity day program and the tea hour which followed. County clubs represented were the Placentia Round Table, the Fullerton Ebbl, the Yorba Linda Woman's club, the La Habra Woman's Improvement club and the Anaheim Ebbl club.

With South America as the theme of the program, Miss Grace Barstow Los Angeles, for many years a resident of that country, spoke on "Rubbing Elbows with Our Southern Neighbors," illustrating her talk with colored lantern slides. Miss Barstow declared South America to be the coming country with vast resources as yet but barely touched. The once old cry, "Go west, young man, go west," is certain shortly to become "Go south, young man, go south," she said.

South Americans, Miss Barstow said, particularly the Latin-Americans, are a very poetic and evasive people with a light gaiety that is belied by an under current of sadness manifested more emphatically in their music than in any other phase of their lives. The "gaucha," like the western cowboy, is practically never seen, a passing feature with the progress of the country.

Mrs. Carl Seaman, Yorba Linda, furnished the delightful musical program which preceded Miss Barstow's talk. Mrs. Seaman first accompanied Miss Elsie Moore, Fullerton, who sang three Negro spirituals, among which was "Lonesome Road." Miss Moore was attired as a Negro mammy. Mrs. Seaman then played several of her own compositions on the piano, a plantation dance, a Spanish and an Irish dance number and "Sunrise in the Alps."

Mrs. F. J. Schweitzer, vice president, conducted the meeting and welcomed the guests. Mrs. E. E. Smith, county president, spoke briefly. She also announced the next county executive board meeting, which is to be held in Brea February 5, with the Brea Woman's club as the hostess group.

Mrs. O. S. Close, hostess chairman, had as her committee, Mesdames R. W. Spensley, L. A. Sayles, C. O. Harvey, W. E. Fanning, Stella Keene, R. M. Ross, Harlan LeGordon, John Cox, C. R. Negley, C. F. Gordon, W. A. Culp, W. H. Hay and Harry Hardy. Baskets of berries and holly, tiny Christmas trees and red candles decorated the clubhouse, while a huge simulated candle in a glass wrappings centered the tea table, flanked by smaller glowing candles.

No meeting of the club will be held now until after the first of the year, the next meeting date falling on January 12.

S. A. Woman In Placentia Talk

PLACENTIA, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Louise Mock, of Santa Ana, was principal speaker at the Placentia Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday noon. Her topic was "Permanent Registration." John Tuffrey, who recently returned from a trip through Central and South America, showed motion pictures.

Mrs. Vaughn Walker, daughter of Mrs. Gus Barnes, entertained with musical number.

Hostesses were Mrs. Nellie Cline, chairman; Mrs. Elsie Raffi, Mrs. Olive Bailey, Mrs. C. H. Copeland, Mrs. T. L. McFadden and Mrs. V. C. Barbe, six women who are regular attendants.

Next Tuesday the American States Water company will be host.

Kiwanians Told Of Sahara Trip

BUENA PARK, Dec. 9.—Dr. W. L. Bigham of Anaheim, was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis club dinner Tuesday evening in the Masonic temple. Dr. Bigham spoke on his trip through the Sahara desert.

Dinner was served by Mrs. Henry Warren, Mrs. Keith Morse, Mrs. Mary Boden and Mrs. Ed Markson.

Former Residents Of Kansas Invited To Brown Revival

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 9.—The Garden Trio entertained at the John Brown tabernacle in Garden Grove Monday night. Members of the Calvary churches, of Placentia and Santa Ana attended the services in a body.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lindgren sang "Drifting." An address on "The Tithes" was given by Mr. Brown.

Tuesday night was Arkansas night and Wednesday night all persons from Kansas are invited.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA CITED BY REV. HUNTER

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—Stating that there was unquestionably much social justice in the present Russian system of government, the Rev. Graham Hunter, pastor of the Fullerton Presbyterian church, spoke to more than 100 members and friends of the Fullerton council of International Relations last night at McFarland's cafe.

His subject was, "Storm Clouds and Sunshine in Russia." He recounted the absolute tyranny shown by the Russian government in its treatment of about 200 Baptist ministers who had been exiled to Siberia for teaching doctrines contrary to the Soviet program. This instance he contrasted with the splendid social welfare work which that country is doing in its provision to take the best possible care of those who are in ill health. Russia's care of children was praised by the Rev. Mr. Hunter. "No country in the world is planning so much for its children as is Russia," said the speaker.

Speaking of the cruelty in Russia, he said: "There one finds the cruelty that savors of Asia—an Asia endurance of cruelty that we can hardly understand." He spoke of an instance where many revolting peasants had been shot down by the soldiers as they attempted to escape across the river. He spoke of the work done by the Soviets in the handling of the prison problem.

One of the prisons located near Moscow, the Rev. Mr. Hunter visited. Here he found almost 2000 prisoners with five guards, none of whom was armed. They lived in barracks and the prisoners had home rule by which they made and enforced the laws under which they lived. After a number of years, the prisoners are paid "union" wages, he said.

Following the dinner meeting, W. T. Boyce as president of the organization first praised and then introduced Otto LeRoss, director of "The Enemy," which play was produced locally by the Local International Relations council Armistice eve. Mr. Le Ross in turn introduced members of the cast.

MRS. C. L. PEARSON HOSTESS TO CLUB

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 9.—The Monday Afternoon Star club met at the home of Mrs. C. L. Pearson, on East Ocean avenue, with Mrs. Louise Lake and Mrs. Camille Nichols co-hostesses.

Mrs. Bessie Day, president, appointed Mrs. Mary Clark and Mrs. Louise Lake as a committee to represent the club in work of the Garden Grove Welfare association.

The club will join with the Eastern Star Chapter and Masons for the Christmas party. An election of officers will be held at the January meeting.

Following a social afternoon a dainty menu was served on small tables. Lovely red roses were used for decorations. Members present were Mesdames Emma Kearns, Mabel Jackson, Lillian Whitte, Alice Smith, Minnie Lynch, Phyllis Gill, Mary Clark, Dorothy Jentges, Mae Henry, Lucille Walker, Helen Woodworth, Letty Lee Robbins, Mabel Williams, Ella Wheeler, Mabel Dole, Bessie —Day, Anna Larson, Miss Margaret Hill and the hostesses.

Surprise Party For Mrs. Lindley

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 9.—A group of neighbors gathered Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Lindley on Dale avenue and gave her a pleasant surprise on her birthday anniversary.

After a social afternoon the honoree was presented with many lovely gifts. Dainty refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. A. Eldore, of Los Angeles, aunt of Mrs. Lindley, Mrs. Mary Hanson and mother-in-law, Mrs. Hanson of St. Paul, Minn., who is spending the winter here. Mrs. Ray Long, Mrs. Lena Miles, Mrs. Marie Long, Mrs. Paul Younger, Mrs. Haywood, Mrs. Effie Swayze, Mrs. Grace Morgan, Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. Margaret Miller, Mrs. Mumm.

RELIEF WORK INAUGURATED IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Dec. 9.—Expressing the belief that the present unemployment situation was a national problem and altogether too large for communities to handle, and deploring the reception accorded the unemployed men in Washington, the Rev. B. Dudley Snudden, pastor of the Fullerton Methodist Episcopal church, presented specific recommendations of the local ministerial association on relief at a meeting of more than 60 representative citizens, who met at the city hall yesterday afternoon with the city council at Mayor Hale's call to consider the local charity and unemployment problems.

As the result of the meeting definite steps will be taken. The Fullerton post of the American Legion had already taken steps to provide a soup kitchen for transients. At the last meeting of the Fullerton brotherhood, recommendations toward the same end were made except that the brotherhood made plans to provide shelter in addition to food. The two organizations were asked to work together toward the same end. A special committee was appointed by Mayor Hale consisting of Herb Sattler representing the American Legion, Tom Eadington representing the Catholic church and W. J. Carmichael the Brotherhood.

It was pointed out by W. J. Carmichael in discussing the problem that the transient problem was one of city-wide concern. A certain amount of care of these unfortunates will eliminate many of the police problems, he declared. He said that the Salvation Army had already been contacted in this regard, and as president of the Fullerton brotherhood, he knew that his organization would be pleased to co-operate with the Legion in any workable plan that might be decided upon. His views regarding this charity work were sanctioned by the Rev. Mortimer Murphy, pastor of the Catholic church, the Rev. Graham Hunter, pastor of the Presbyterian church, the Rev. George E. Tinsley, pastor of the Christian church and Chief of Police James Pearson.

The matter of relief for local families was discussed. Mrs. A. H. T. Osborne, president of the City Nurse association, gave a complete report of the work being done by this organization. A vote of confidence was given to the city nurse association and all organizations were asked to make its contributions through this agency rather than to duplicate efforts. In order to assist in the extension of this work, and collect additional funds if necessary, a motion was made that a special committee be appointed to centralize all efforts in social relief measures. The committee will consist of six members appointed by Mayor Hale, who are Councilman William Potter and Thomas Taylor along with two members from the local unemployment committee and two members from the local unemployment committee and two members from the City Nurse association.

SCOUTS PLAN OUTING

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 9.—Four San Clemente Boy Scouts will attend the Christmas camp party of Scouts of Orange county to be held from December 18 to 23 at the organization's camp in the mountains. The youths from the Spanish village who will go to the camp with Santa Ana Scouts are Roy Divil, Robert Campbell, Ralph Johnston and Robert Adair. This announcement was made yesterday by Roland Peterson, Scoutmaster of the San Clemente troop.

Legion Post Prepares To Help Needy

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—A ways and means committee was appointed at the meeting of the Fullerton Post of the American Legion last night for the purpose of completing plans for feeding transients here.

This committee, consisting of Herb Sattler, George Willette, Perry Maynard, Robert Seamans and Walter Humphreys, will work with the Fullerton Men's brotherhood in this project. Together they believe that they will be able to feed about 25 men daily and aim to provide shelter also.

The local post decided to stage a turkey shoot just before Christmas on West Commonwealth avenue west of the Fullerton airport.

The building committee was authorized to spend not in excess of $25 for the purpose of having plans drawn for the new Legion home.

At the next meeting of the post, a Christmas party will be held, with the auxiliary co-operating. All of the children will be presented small gifts at the party.

ANNUAL PARTY IS ENJOYED BY CHURCH CLASS

COSTA MESA, Dec. 9.—Members of the Loyal Workers Sunday school class of the Community church held their annual Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abrams on Twentieth street last evening with class members and their families attending.

A short business session, with the class president, Mrs. H. L. Baird presiding, occupied the first part of the evening.

The treasurer reported $25 received from the sacred concert last Sunday. This will be applied on the interest of the organ debt.

Mrs. Grow S. Brown, class teacher, gave a resume of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Mrs. A. F. Hassel favored with two vocal numbers. Miss Harriet Abrams accompanied at the piano. Lively games and an exchange of small gifts afforded much merriment.

Coffee and home made cakes were served to the following: Rev. A. P. Hassel and Mrs. Hassel, Mr. and Mrs. Grow S. Brown and daughter Miriam; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nelson and daughter, Avonell; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Davis and daughter, Helen; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Coe, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McMurry and daughter Doris; Mrs. Edith Currie and daughter, Mrs. Winifred Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ogden and son, Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Will Boyd and son, Willie; Mrs. J. A. Pearce, Mrs. Kate Hirtler, Mrs. M. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Dodge and daughter, Dorothy and Betty; Mrs. J. Pangle, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Baird, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abrams and family.

STUDENTS GIVE PROGRAM FOR LIONS AT MESA

COSTA MESA, Dec. 9.—E. A. Rae, assistant principal of Newport harbor union high school, was program chairman for the Lions club Tuesday, and introduced Miss Marie Hiebsch, music instructor, who in turn introduced Frank Temple, first tenor; Joe Wilson, second tenor; Jim Wheat, baritone, and Jerry Perry, basso, members of the high school male quartet.

Three numbers were given by the quartet and Joe Wilson favored with two solo numbers.

PARTIAL TEXT OF HOOVER'S BUDGET MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The budget message of President Hoover to congress was, in part, as follows:

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, the receipts, originally estimated at $3,956,000,000, are now expected to fall of realization because of the severity of the depression and will fall below the estimates by $1,717,000,000. The principal elements entering into this decline in revenues are in—come-tax receipts, $1,140,000,000; customs receipts $202,000,000; miscellaneous internal-revenue receipts, $132,000,000 and postponement of payments of principal and interest on the foreign debt, $247,000,000.

"Expenditures are expected to increase over the original estimates by $437,000,000. This is the net difference between many items of increase and decrease. The principal increases, in part due to subsequent legislation, include added benefits to veterans, $135,000,000; speeding up of public works to aid unemployment, $160,000,000; federal arm board revolving loan fund, $30,000,000; interest on public debt, $24,000,000; postal deficit, $1,000,000; and settlement under war claims act, $37,000,000. There are many other individual items of increase over the expenditures estimated a year ago which would materially swell the total of increases. Rigid reduction of expenses elsewhere is contemplated by decreases in public expenditures on smaller tax refunds than were originally estimated serve to offset the total increase.

"These changes in receipts and expenditures indicate a deficit of $1,228,000,000 which includes statutory debt retirement or a probable net debt increase of $1,717,000,000.

"We are now face to face with a situation where for a time the current revenues of the government under our existing laws have fallen below the amounts required to meet absolutely necessary expenses. This brings the question directly before us of the course that shall be pursued. As already stated the deficit for the fiscal year 1931 is $902,000,000 and the estimated deficit for 1932, $2,238,000,000, and 1933, $1,417,000,000. A total of $4,442,000,000, which, after deducting statutory debt retirements and increased cash in the treasury, show for these three fiscal years a total probable net increase in the national debt of $2,247,000,000. Rightly or wrongly our tax system is very largely based upon business profits and in consequence is subject to great variations.

"We cannot maintain public confidence or stability of the federal government without undertaking some temporary tax increases. It is obviously impossible to impose a degree of taxation which will balance the budget for the current fiscal year. We should endeavor by increase of taxes and rigid curtailment of expenditures to balance the budget for the next fiscal year except to the extent of the amount required for statutory debt retirements. We should secure its balance, including statutory debt retirements, for the fiscal year follows.

"I recommend that congress provide for an increase in taxation for a definite limited period, and upon the general plan of the revenue act of 1924 with such changes as may be appropriate in the light of altered conditions. The secretary of the treasury has prepared recommendations along these lines which will be presented at the proper time. It is proposed that this increase shall be definitely terminated in two years from next July. This plan, it is estimated, will realize $220,000,000 next year and meet the above conditions of balancing the budget for the fiscal year 1933 except for the statutory debt retirement. It would balance the budget including debt retirement in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1933. It would provide about $390,000,000 for the current year leaving us with the necessity of borrowing an amount which will represent a net increase of the public debt by about $1,520,000,000.

"The plan of approximately re-enacting the revenue act of 1924 has the great advantage that the government is equipped by experience with similar legislation for its systematic and economical collection. The public has paid such taxes in the past and has found them not intolerable and has found that they do not prevent the country from prospering. By providing a definite date for termination of the temporary increase it will allow taxpayers to look forward to definite relief.

"I further recommend that congress inquire into the economic effect of the provisions of the present law relating to capital gains and losses.

"There is requested in this budget a total of slightly more than $1,072,000,000 for the veterans' administration, compared with a total appropriation for 1932 of approximately $947,000,000. About $21,000,000 of each of these amounts pertains to the civil service retirement and disability fund which is not properly chargeable to the annual cost of caring for our veterans, which thus becomes $296,000,000 for 1932 and $1,051,000,000 for 1933. Comparison of these amounts indicates on its face a net increase of $125,000,000 for 1932. However, it is now known that additional appropriations will be required for the fiscal year 1932 to the approximate amount of $260,000,000 of which $200,000,000 is to meet obligations due to the increase in the loan value of adjusted service certificates and $60,000,000 to meet the requirements for the military and naval compensation, army and navy pensions, and aid to the state and territorial home for disabled veterans.

"Taking these supplemental requirements for 1932 into consideration, the above indicate net increase of $125,000,000 becomes a net decrease of approximately $380,000,000.

"The net decrease for the war department amounts to $33,962,000. This is due mainly to the fact that owing to lowered commodity costs there will be carried forward into 1933 large stocks of subsistence, clothing, and other supplies, and to a decrease in the present estimates from the appropriations for 1932 or funds to carry forward the army building program. The postponement of other projects and training of the army has also been a material factor in effecting reduction in the estimates for 1933.

"Provision is made in these estimates for average active strengths of 12,000 commissioned officers, 924 warrant officers, and 118,750 enlisted men of the regular army, and 6500 enlisted men of the Philippine Scouts; for an actual average strength of 185,000 officers and men of the National Guard; for the training of 20,722 members of the organized reserves for varying periods; for the enrollment and instruction of 127,955 students in reserve officers' training corps units in schools and colleges and the training of 7200 of this number in 42 camps; and for 30 days' attendance at Citizens' military training camps of 37,500 trainees.

"For the navy department the items contained in the estimates for 1932 amount to $342,000,000. The comparable amount appropriated for 1932 is $359,694,000. This indicates a decrease under 1932 of $17,694,000. This decrease includes $15,000,000 for ordinary maintenance and operating expenses of the fleet and the shore establishment, $3,000,000 for shore projects, and $1,500,000 for construction of new ships. It provides an increase of $15,000,000 for modernization of battleships. The items for ordinary maintenance and operation of the fleet and shore establishments provide for maintaining during 1933 an average of 79,700 enlisted men of the navy, the same as provided for 1932, and an average of 15,343 enlisted men of the marine corps as against 17,500 men provided for 1932. Under these estimates no fighting vessels will be decommissioned and no navy yards or training stations will be closed.

"The estimates of $31,400,000 for the construction of new vessels, compared with the appropriation of $38,550,000 for 1932, indicates a decrease of $7,150,000.

"We have recently closed one fiscal year and are now advanced into another year where the depression in business has resulted, on the one hand, in a heavy falling off in receipts and, on the other hand, in large federal expenditures to provide work to assist in the relief of unemployment.

"The welfare of the country demands that the financial integrity of the federal government be maintained. This is a necessary factor in the rebuilding of a sound national prosperity. This budget, with its recommended reductions in appropriations and increases in revenues, presents a definite program to this end involving three steps—first, a material reduction in the anticipated deficit for the current fiscal year; second, a relation between receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1933 which will avoid a further increase in the public debt during that year; and third, a balanced budget for 1934.

"To carry out this program it is of importance to emphasize the fact that we are now in a period where federal finances will not permit of the assumption of any obligations which will enlarge the expenditures to be met from the ordinary receipts of the government.

"I am confident that the congress realize this situation and will give it full consideration in passing upon matters which may contemplate any such additions to our spending program to those in—come or groups who normally would importune the congress to enact measures in which they are interested. I wish to say that the most patriotic duty which they can perform at this time is to themselves refrain and to discourage others from seeking any increase in the drain upon public finances."

PARTY OBSERVES SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Carl Nichols entertained with a party Tuesday afternoon in observance of the seventh birthday anniversary of her daughter, Nancy.

The little girls brought their best dolls and enjoyed having their pictures taken. After a number of interesting games, Nancy displayed her lovely birthday gifts.

At the refreshment hour the guests were seated at a table centered with a Christmas tree and tall red tapers. Gifts for each one were hidden under the tree and fastened to streamers at each place. A large white birthday cake, decorated with green candles in tiny red holders, was cut and served with ice cream.

Those present were Margot Ann Rossetol, Jean Meyer, Norma Force, Marian Berlin, Jean Kellogg, Elizabeth Van Wedelstaedt and Nancy Nichols.

JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS WILL PRESENT TUNEFUL OPERETTA FOR THREE PERFORMANCES

Anyone interested in learning "Who's Who" in the junior high school world, will anticipate the operetta by that name to be given its premier tomorrow afternoon in Frances Wilard Junior High school auditorium with young people of the school forming the cast. Preparations for the operetta have been under way for several weeks in readiness for presenting it as a pre-holiday event, and special interest has been aroused because, for the first time in school history, the production is a strictly original one.

Originality is insured by reason of the fact that music for the production was composed by Miss Gladys Campbell, head of the music department in the city schools, while the libretto is the work of Harold Fish of the First National bank staff, whose interest in working for the junior high school was first aroused in his duties of handling the school savings department of the bank.

There will be three presentations of the colorful little operetta, the first to be the matinee tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with evening productions following tomorrow and Friday nights at 8 o'clock. Miss Escher, Jean Davis of the school faculty is directing the players, with the assistance of Miss Ruth Langley. Miss Campbell, the composer, will be at the piano as accompanist for each performance.

Plot Amusing A true "comedy of errors" is presented in the ingenious plot, which portrays the amusing complications arising from pranks played on two members of a boys' club. Adjoining the clubhouse is "Crane House," a clubhouse for girls, and the tangled plot arising from such a juxtaposition forms the theme of the operetta.

Taking leading roles are Joannette Klatt as Jean; Valerie Demetriou, Betty; Anna Mae Hendricks, Rose; Leola Schroeder, the leader at Crane House; Jean Phillips, the cook; Betty Lee, the maid; Elbert Steward, the janitor; Hubert Nall, the policeman; Frank Marr, Bob; Bill Hawkins, Jerry; Earl Kennedy, the "king"; Bob McNeill, "first knight"; Albert Pickhardt, "second knight"; and Philip Smith, "guardian."

One of the features will be a colorful dance taking place in the second act, for which Miss Dorothy Broadway has directed a group of girls including the Misses Betty Jane Moore, Fern Berkner, Jean Baxter, Evelyn Shepherd, Anna Mae Hendricks, Lucille Morris, Mildred Pierson, La Vene Parks, Alisa Hoffman, Anna Sutherland, Audra Harbey and Dorothy Whitaker.

Arthur Salisbury, Joe Sanford, Malcolm Smith, Philip Smith, Spurgeon Sparks, Wayne Stillburg, Delbert Tucker, Jack Tumber, Isaac Van Gorkum, Kenneth Waite, Jack Wallace, Earl Waynich, Ivan Williams, Alfred Wright, Richard Wright.

Girls Participate Wynne Adema, Jean Baxter, Margaret Baxter, Fern Berkner, Bette Bernstein, Lucile Bray, Lon Ella Brunson, Pauline Cave, Lorraine Clark, Margaret Cummings, Barbara Doan, Naome Dennie, Margaret Forkus, Eleanor Freiburg, Betty Goode.

Audra Harvey, Marguerite Haskell, Bernadine Helberg, Anna Mae Hendricks, Mollie Holzknecht, Edna Huttoon, Marjorie Jacques, Esther Lukin, Elizabeth Marston, Ruth McBurney, Joseph McCormack, Betty Mellichten, Mary Mercurio, Betty Jane Moore, Lucille Morris.

La Vene Parks, Mary Parriott, Liebe Peale, Mildred Pearson, Demaris Peek, Margaret Perry, Lola Pride, Eleanor Rohrs, Helen Ryherd, Ruth Seymour, Evelyn Shepherd, Mildred Stafford, Lucille Stein, Naomi Sullivan, Anna Sutherland, Alisa Thompson, Leatha Taylor and Dorothy Whitaker.

CARD PARTY HELD BY BEACH P.-T. A.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 9.—The Parent-Teacher association held its benefit card party at Memorial hall last night. Owing to the rain the attendance was light, but the receipts netted $30 for the welfare fund.

Two business men, Leo Chamness and Ralph Charter sponsored the affair, paying all expenses. They provided some fine prizes for the card games and served excellent refreshments. Bridge, "500" and chess were played. The winners at bridge were Mrs. Lois Robb, first prize; Mrs. J. Proctor, second prize; Miss Mary Van Tyle, consolation; Dan Copeland, first for men, Al Severson, second; J. Sargeant, consolation. Mrs. Hazel Renfro won women's first prize at "500". Mrs. Charley Burycamp, second; Mrs. C. F. King, consolation. J. Chamness, women's first prize at "500"; Charley Burycamp, second, and C. F. King, consolation. Mrs. D. Westmoreland received the door prize, a bushel basket of choice groceries. General chairman of the evening were Mrs. James Renfro and Mrs. Ted Tarbox. Ted Tarbox had charge of the games.

Dance Plans Discussed When Panhellenic Club Meets

Devoting much of their business session to making plans for their Christmas dance scheduled as an event of December 26 in the Orange Woman's clubhouse, members of Panhellenic society met last evening in the home of Mrs. Elsie Wingwood Daley, 1811 Rush street. Hostesses with her were Mrs. Milburn Harvey, Miss Linda Griffith, Mrs. Albert Harvey, Mrs. Gerald Oliver and Miss Jean Wolcott.

Miss Ruth Langley, president, was in charge of the session. Mrs. Ruby Hill Wright, chairman of plans for the club dance, announced that many reservations have been made for the affair and all details of the event are progressing nicely. Proceeds from the dance will go to the student loan fund.

Eight tables of bridge were in session following and when scores had been added on the attractive little Santa Claus tables, it was found that Miss Langley held high honors, and Mrs. Rossett, low.

At a late hour, refreshments of French pastries and coffee were served at the small tables. Lovely roses in tins of pink and yellow were used in decorating for the event.

Program for Lathrop Benefit Tea Told

The completed program for the silver tea function to be held as a benefit for the Julia Lathrop school P.-T.-A. welfare fund at the home of Mrs. Guy Belcher, 410 West Second street, Friday from 3 to 5 p. m., was made known today by Mrs. Belcher.

Program features will include readings by Mrs. M. E. Geeting, vocal solos by Miss Edith Cornell, piano selections by Mrs. Frances Beeson, readings by Miss Mary Jane Belcher and vocal numbers by Mrs. R. T. Brown. The Mother'singers of the school will also offer a group of Christmas carols. It was announced.

Ebell Group Observes Holiday Season with Pleasant Party

No more charming application of the Christmas theme to entertaining has been shown during the current season than in the Yuletide party which members of Ebell's Fifth Household Economics section shared yesterday as guests of a group entertaining at luncheon in The Sycamores, popular Tustin rendezvous for hostesses and guests.

Sprays of holly and cotoneaster, amidst whose glossy green leaves nestled the small scarlet berries so eloquent of the season, lent a festive holiday atmosphere to the Sycamores, an atmosphere intensified by the table appointments when luncheon was served.

For small Christmas trees, sparkling with tinsel and scarlet decorations, dominated each table, and the menu was in keeping with the season.

The hostess group planning the hospitality, included Mrs. Hugh Plumb, Mrs. D. A. Harwood, Mrs. T. W. Montgomery, Mrs. Charles Bowman, Mrs. Howard Stone, Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer, Mrs. H. F. Townner, Mrs. Severin Schulte, Miss Clara Richards, Mrs. Cood Adams, Mrs. Frank Preston, Mrs. D. D. Waynick, Mrs. Edward Walker and Mrs. J. D. Watkins.

Sharing their hospitality were Mrs. George Chapman, leader of the section; Mrs. F. F. Mead, Mrs. Carl Klett, Mrs. H. C. Kirk, Mrs. E. H. Guthrie, Mrs. Paul Bailey, general Ebell president; Mrs. H. Krahling, Mrs. James Willis Rice, Mrs. L. E. Allen, Mrs. C. C. Diehl, Mrs. Floyd Spencer and one guest, Mrs. C. W. Plumb of Grand Junction, Colo.

Immediately following the luncheon was the arrival of none other than Santa Claus himself, a part very well taken by Master Donald Richards, introduced by Mrs. J. D. Watkins. The diminutive saint drew a well-filled wagon from which he distributed the attractively wrapped and tied gifts to those who supply each section member had contributed.

For the remainder of the pleasant afternoon, the group enjoyed bridge, in which first and second honors were taken by Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Bailey. The gifts were like a breath from the Orient, for a beautiful Saitama vase rewarded Mrs. Rice, while a Chinese lacquer tray was presented Mrs. Bailey. They had been selected especially for the Christmas party of the section, by Mrs. Severin Schulte, when she spent the past summer months in the Orient.

Union Will Distribute Literature During Campaign

Members of the W. C. T. U. voted to send literature to be distributed each month during the coming year's campaign. At the meeting held yesterday afternoon in Spurgeon Memorial church, five hundred pages will be received each month, and distributors will place the literature where it will receive the attention of the public.

The president, Mrs. Amy Evans, was in charge of the session. Mrs. T. W. Ringold, wife of the pastor of the United Brethren church, led the devotional service on the subject of "Prayer," after which Mrs. Irma Baxter sang, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and "In the Garden." Mrs. Anna Frames accompanied at the piano.

Members voted to send cookies and fruit to the soldiers and sailors at Home Center in San Diego for the holiday season. Much of yesterday's session was spent in sewing on layettes, for which there is an urgent need at present.

Victory day will be observed at the next meeting in January.

Health Department Employees Stage Holiday Dance

The Orient cafe was the scene Saturday night of a banquet and dance, staged by members of the Orange County Health department. Over 20 attended the affair, details of which were supervised by Miss Dorothy Kopfer and Mrs. Everett E. Fowler. Following the dinner, those of the guests preferring to do so gathered about card tables for an evening of play. Prizes here were captured by Mrs. Arthur Nies, high scorer for the women, and Max Holmes, scoring high among the men.

Attending the gathering were Drs. and Mesdames K. H. Sutherland, Arthur Nies, H. Granlich, Edward Lee Russell; Messrs. and Mesdames E. E. Frisby, C. W. O'Flynn, W. W. Chandler, Max Holmes, Ray Smith, Don Eichen; the Misses Elsie Bennett, Jean Curtis, Erma Cotton, Verna Jones, Isabel Dugan, Myrtle Winters and Dorothy Kopfer; Messrs. Harold Tompkins, William Schroer and Laurence Stewart.

Club Members Dinner Guests at Smart Yule Affair

One of the gayest of recent club parties to herald the Christmas holidays was the attractive dinner affair given last night by Miss Frances Egge and Miss Grace Robertson for members of their bridge club.

Guests gathered at the Egge home at 1330 Bush street and then braved the weather in a body to reach the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe around the corner for the dinner which preceded the evening of contract play. Awaiting them they found a long table trimmed in silver and green, a color combination which found appropriate expression in two clusters of gray castle turrets, circled with bits of greenery and in green tapers set in silver candlesticks.

Repeating later to the Egge home members passed a gay evening of contract before gathering about a lighted Christmas tree to rob it of its gifts, brought by the several guests. When the last package had been unwrapped the hostesses presented Mrs. Sheldon Russell, high scorer at bridge with a novel guest room accessory, in doll form, while Mrs. Boyd Anderson, second high, was given a handsome Italian leather book cover.

Guests of Miss Egge and Miss Robertson last evening were Mesdames Lynn Crawford, Sheldon Russell, Carson Smith, Boyd Munger and Ralph Liverspire, and Misses Tessie Childers, Genevieve Humiston, Enid Twist, Helen Kirkland, Constance Cruickshank, Dorothy Porgy and Mary Safely.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Members of the Amber Circle of Hermosa chapter of the O. E. S. were requested today to bring a "White Elephant" gift and an article of food to their luncheon meeting to be held at the Masonic temple tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. The food will later be distributed among needy families.

The Women's auxiliary of the Church of the Messiah will meet Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the home of the president, Mrs. S. P. Freeman, 1414 Durant street. This will be an all-day sewing meeting, and all members are to bring individual lunches. Coffee will be served. United thank offerings will be turned in at this meeting.

Women's Benefit Association members will make their meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. E. R. Curtis, 222 South Main street, a pleasant social affair by meeting at noon for a covered dish luncheon. The association will furnish bread, butter and coffee, so members are asked to be present in full force and contribute favorite dishes to the menu. Election of officers will be held during the afternoon, and an interesting meeting is anticipated.

The Women's Missionary society of Calvary church will have an all-day meeting tomorrow in the home of Mrs. F. M. Thomas, 914 South Main street. There will be a covered dish luncheon at noon to which each member is to contribute a covered dish and bring her table service. Members also are to bring pieces for making quilt covers. Mr. and Mrs. Malmstrom, who have returned from a 5-year stay in Pangojoch, Guatemala, where they were missionaries, will be present at the luncheon. In the afternoon, Mrs. Malmstrom will give a talk.

Ebell Fourth Household Economics section members are anticipating their annual Christmas party for Friday when they will meet in the clubhouse lounge as guests for a 1 o'clock luncheon of Mrs. John Knox, Mrs. W. Verne Whitson, Mrs. Oliver Umberham and Mrs. F. E. Moore. Following the luncheon hour and the very brief business program conducted by Mrs. S. I. Preble, section leader, will be the annual gift exchange and general holiday rejoicing. Members who find themselves unable to be present are asked to telephone any member of the hostess group.

Church Societies

Estimating the number of Jewish people now residing in Los Angeles at approximately 100,000 and the number to be found along the coast at 200,000, Mrs. J. A. Vaus of Los Angeles, founder of Jewish work in that city, addressed the Kluge Daughters' Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Will J. Lindsay, 801 East Third street, Monday.

Mrs. Vaus, who has been identified with her present work in Los Angeles since 1908, described the "home" in which part of the work of converting Jews is carried on, and told also of the rooms in the Bible institute set aside for public talks in the interests of their project. The most important work she declared to be centered in a "Missionary Training school," of which her husband is head. In this institution converts are schooled for work among their own people. Street meetings are also conducted by Mrs. Vaus and her aids, and this phase of the undertaking has proved very successful, she said.

Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Audrey Duckett and Miss Lila Belle Garrett, while Miss Marjorie Lindsay, society president, and Miss Margaret Finley received funds for candy to be sent the Indian school in Riverside, at Christmas. Miss Jane McBurney assisted Mrs. Lindsay as hostess.

In attendance were Mrs. J. A. Vaus, the Misses Marjorie Lindsay, Margaret Finley, Rebecca McPeak Audrey Duckett, Lila Belle Garrett, Jean Hoy, Erma Endres, Donna Endres, June Burham, Alice Nelson, Jane McBurney, Ruth McBurney and Mrs. Will J. Lindsay.

Fourth District P.-T. A. Stages Successful Meeting

Mrs. Mary R. Robertson, 1317 North Main street, spent yesterday in Olinia, where as president of the fourth district Parent-Teacher association, she conducted the very interesting session of the organization which held their annual election of officers in connection with yesterday afternoon's meeting in Knights of Pythias hall.

Officers named to serve with Mrs. Hewitt were Mrs. Harriet Mitchell, senior vice-president; Mrs. Addie Gordon, junior vice-president; Mrs. Jessie Overton, chairman; Mrs. Esther Gardner, treasurer; Miss Minnie Cowan, first council; Mrs. Gladys Ward, second council; Mrs. Margaret Robertson, third council, and Mrs. Florence Perry, patriotic instructor. One of Mrs. Hewitt's first duties will be to appoint the officers necessary to the completion of the list, and this will be done in advance of the installation meeting.

Additional business matters considered during the afternoon included letters from former members. One of these was from Mrs. Mary Finch, now making her home in Grand Rapids, Mich., and who wrote for a transfer that she might identify herself with the Grand Rapids school P.-T. A. Round members regretted losing Mrs. Finch, but expressed their interest in her associations with a new group.

Another letter was from Mrs. Caroline Adams, a charter member of the Santa Ana tent now living in Long Beach.

Reports of the month's activities showed that the relief committee had expended $27; the patriotic committee, $40; the calling committee had recorded 45 calls, and the flower committee had sent three birthday bouquets to Civil war veterans.

Tustin Players Plan To Give Comedy Friday Night

Santa Ana play-goers who are familiar with Estelle Card Beaman's excellent work in Community Players' association production, will be interested in her work as a director, and will like to know that Mrs. Beaman is directing the production of "Adam and Eve" to be given Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Tustin grammar school auditorium.

Tustin Community Players are joining with the Tustin high school Parent-Teacher association, in producing the amusing drama, written by Guy Bolton and George Middleton. Members of the three groups have been called upon to take prominent parts in the play, the dress rehearsal of which is to be held tomorrow night.

"Adam and Eve" is in three acts, and the characters, as they appear in the play, are "James King," a wealthy business man, played by Phil C. Brooks; "Cornelia," the maid, by Miss Bonnie Kiser; "Julie," the married daughter of James King, by Beth Gaugher; "Clinton De Witt," her husband, by Merle Irwin; "Aunt Abby Rocker," by Mrs. Arthur Whitten; "Eva," King's youngest daughter, by Marjorie Burns; "Dr. Jack Delameter," Eva's suitor, by Paul C. Etzold; "Uncle Horace Pilgrim," by Hugh J. Plumb; "Lord Andrew Gordon," a Scottish nobleman and second actor of Eva's, Glen Eustice, and "Adam Smith," King's business manager, Harry Harckroad.

Those who have seen rehearsals of the play, are enthusiastic regarding the amusing lines and excellent cast, assembled under Mrs. Beaman's direction.

YOU and your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Antone Borchard of this city had as guests over the week end Mr. and Mrs. Ignatz Freidrick and sons, Alfred and Ignatz, of Oxnard.

Mrs. Charles Jackson and children, Mildred and Fred, of 214 Hobart street, left today by motor for Topeka, Kan. The Jacksons are making the trip with Mrs. Jackson's sister, Mrs. M. P. Olson, and Mr. Olson, of Topeka, who have been visiting at the Jackson home here for the past month. Mrs. Jackson and her children expected to return to Santa Ana about January 1.

Mrs. G. W. Gardner of Oakland is visiting with Mrs. Henry Walters, 1605 East Fourth street.

Joseph E. Rose and J. Day of Woodland, Calif., are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parsons and family, 1061 West Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hauser, Midway City; Albert Burke, West Seventeenth street and Betty Jean Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carr, 111 1-2 South Broadway, left last night for Bolivar, Mo., where Mrs. Hauser's father is suffering from a fractured skull.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Gall, West Ninth street, have as guests this week, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Malmstrom, who have just completed a five-year stay in Pangojoch, Guatemala, where they were missionaries.

A. C. Fritcher of the U. S. naval transport, Chaumont, is spending several days in the home of his mother, Mrs. Susan Fritcher, Buena Vista road.

Mrs. J. W. Plumb, who, with her father, J. I. Morse, and her son and daughter, Horace and Miss Martha Plumb, arrived just before Thanksgiving from their home in Grand Junction, Colo., for a visit with Mrs. Plumb's brother-in-law, Hugh J. Plumb, and other relatives, will remain to spend the winter months in the community. The family has taken the former home property of Mrs. Perry Lewis (the Childs property) on Main street, Tustin, for the winter.

Daughters of Veterans Meet for Annual Election

Having completed a successful year as president of Sarah A. Rounds tent, Daughter of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Mrs. Lena Hewitt was unanimously elected to serve a second year when the daughters held their annual election of officers in connection with yesterday afternoon's meeting in Knights of Pythias hall.

Officers named to serve with Mrs. Hewitt were Mrs. Harriet Mitchell, senior vice-president; Mrs. Addie Gordon, junior vice-president; Mrs. Jessie Overton, chairman; Mrs. Esther Gardner, treasurer; Miss Minnie Cowan, first council; Mrs. Gladys Ward, second council; Mrs. Margaret Robertson, third council, and Mrs. Florence Perry, patriotic instructor. Las Gitanas Members Share Evening of Cards and Music

Miss Katharine Robbins, 2123 North Main street, was a gracious hostess to sister members of Las Gitanas club Monday evening when she entertained at the regular meeting. A brief business session, conducted by the president, Miss Velma Bishop, was followed by an evening of bridge and coffee, for which novelty prizes were awarded Miss Velma Bishop, first; and Miss Allien Lair, second. Following cards, Miss Bishop and Miss Lair favored with several piano selections.

At the close of the evening refreshments of plum pudding and coffee were served with favors of candy candles in Christmas hues, at the bridge tables. The home was artistically decorated with autumn flowers, and with the light shed by glowing tapers, made a pretty scene indeed.

Those present in addition to the hostess, Miss Katharine Robbins, were the adviser, Mrs. Gail Smith, and the Misses Lucile Reich, Lois Read, Janice Black, Dorothy Parker, Constance Hannah, Blanche Potter, Leona Stine, and Allien Lair.

Birthdays Observed At Beach Party

The birthday anniversaries of a number of Balboa employees were celebrated in fitting style Sunday at a beach party held on Balboa Island. Mrs. Edna Timm, Miss Ethel Coffman and Miss Esther Coffman were the objects of this celebration, which was in the nature of a Christmas event.

An afternoon of sport was followed by a dinner and informal reception at which the Christmas note predominated.

Members of the party comprised Messrs. and Messrs. Elmer Thompson, Will Wyckoff, W. E. Myers, Fred Timm, Lay Freeman, Mrs. Marie Fowler, Miss Helen Gallagher, Miss Ethel Coffman and Miss Esther Coffman.

Local Couple Observes Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Belcher celebrated their 28th wedding anniversary in company with their children and grandchildren Sunday when they were guests of Mrs. Lynn Dunham at a delightful dinner party given in her home in Los Angeles. The date was doubly significant in that it also marked the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Dunham. Two cakes were required to observe the twin celebrations fittingly and these were placed before Mrs. Belcher and Mrs. Dunham. Members of the dinner party included Mr. and Mrs. Guy Belcher and daughter, Miss Ruby Belcher, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belcher and daughter, Patricia; Mr. and Mrs. Grant D. Belcher and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Dunham and daughter, Lillian, all of Los Angeles.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS HOUSEHOLD

Making a Lovely Spread

I saw a love of a bedspread yesterday when I was shopping, one any woman could make if she were careful of work and measurements. This one was on a twin-sized bed and was made of misty-flowered taffeta 50 inches wide. It wasn't the lovely material which intrigued me, it was the simple ease with which the spread could be put in place and the way the pillow bolster was designed. In length it was three yards. The bottom end rounded on corners, tucked neatly down behind the footboard. At the top it was spread smoothly up to the headboard, the pillow laid flat and the bolster part brought neatly down over the pillow.

It was this clever bolster end that caught my eye. The taffeta was the reversible kind, so the length of material was all in one. I see, when the spread was smoothed up to the headboard there was still a good bit of it left, which doubled back on itself to form the bolster cover. It was about 20 inches deep in center, gently rounded on the edges, and a frilly flounce of almond green edged it, the flounce much wider at the ends than in the center. In effect it looked a lot like those old frilled aprons we used to make out of our husband's discarded shirts. You see how easy it would be to make up this bed. Just adjust the cover, put the pillow flat and bring the frilled bolster end back over it.

Deep flounces were on both sides attached at the top edge, and these flounces extended from top bed post to bottom. If one's bed were the kind that did not have a deep foot board a short flounce on the bottom end would be the way to finish the spread.

In 50-inch material it would require 6 1/2 yards for a full-sized bed. The spread would be quite as effective in a less costly material, unless you found this wide flounce taffeta on sale. Glazed chintz would be quite lovely for twin beds, but don't forget that the bolster-end would need to be cut and sewed on in reverse to take care of the design and finish. Corded edges on the flounces would be smart and save material when width is a problem.

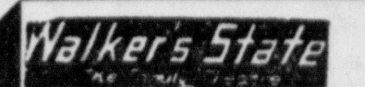

Cold in Head, Chest or Throat?

RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours... what a glorious relief!

Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve.

It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars, tubes, all druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

December Programs of B. P. W. Club Are Announced

Remaining December programs for the Business and Professional Women's club, have been announced by the month's social committee of which Miss Lula B. Finley is chairman. Miss Finley called her committee together following Monday's luncheon in Ketter's cafe, to outline plans for the remainder of the month.

Miss Nancy Elder, Miss Genevieve Humiston and Miss Elizabeth Perkins are working with Miss Finley in securing entertainment for the weekly luncheon hours, and for next Monday will present Miss Lucille Robinson, Girl Reserve secretary at the Y. W. C. A. On Monday, December 21, the mid-day meeting will be held in favor of a dinner meeting and Christmas party to be held in the recently opened Doris Katherine tea room on North Main street, formerly the William E. Otis home.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock, and reservations will be asked at next Monday's luncheon. Each one attending will be asked to bring a "White Christmas" gift in the form of staple groceries, canned fruit or similar supplies. These are to be wrapped attractively in Christmas colors, and will be turned over to Miss Alma Karlsson for distribution among worthy families in need.

For the final meeting of the month, Miss Finley and her committee have succeeded in securing William McPherson, president of the Orange County Historical society, who will speak on "Indians of Southern California." This will be at the usual luncheon hour at noon on Monday, December 28.

Mrs. J. A. Small Club Treasurer

YORBA LINDA, Dec. 9.—At a short business meeting of the board of the Yorba Linda Woman's club yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. A. C. Pickering, Mrs. A. W. Miller resigned as treasurer and Mrs. J. A. Small was elected to take her place. Mrs. Miller is auditor of the club.

After the meeting a number of the women attended the reciprocity day meeting at the Brea Woman's club.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Leath, of Glendale, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seaman Sunday. On Sunday night Mrs. Seaman's composition, "Echoes of a Cottonfield," was given by a Negro chorus at the White Temple Methodist church at Anaheim.

BILLIE BURKE HERE THURSDAY IN STAGE PLAY

A wild jamboree of midsummer madness is perhaps the best phrase to describe Paul Osborne's sparkling and sophisticated play in which Miss Billie Burke comes to the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow under the banner of the energetic and highly successful producing firm of Belasco and Curran.

As Laura Merrick, Miss Burke is decidedly at her best according to all who have seen her in this daffy tale of Long Island society folk. She plays a flirty matron who is in love with love and who being neglected by a liverish husband starts on a fevered search for romance. Miss Burke plays Laura with the irresistible charm which distinguishes all of her roles.

Her supporting cast is of uniform excellence, including William Morris, Julie Dillon and Harry G. Bradley. Edgar MacGregor who staged Miss Burke's first play has had charge of the direction.

Judge Suspends Speeding Sentence As Wedding Gift

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 9.—A suspended sentence for speeding is Judge Fred S. Warner's wedding gift to a Los Angeles attorney. The Los Angeles man, arrested on November 26 for traveling 60 miles an hour through the Spanish Village, wrote the judge a letter explaining his side of the case. It was a good letter, as the suspended sentence reveals.

"The happy man wrote: 'I was on the date mentioned particularly enamored with a young lady, who was at that time in Nebraska which said lady was at that time rather ill. I had received word that she would call me at a certain telephone in Los Angeles at 1 a. m., Nebraska time, which difference in time would schedule the call at Los Angeles at 10 a. m. This I explained to the officer who gave me the ticket for speeding.'

"At any rate, in time I received the call, and the young lady of whom I speak became my wife on Sunday, November 29 at Las Vegas, Nevada, at which point I met her as she was returning from Nebraska."

P. T. A. Sponsors Benefit Program

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 9.—The Westminster Parent-Teacher association is sponsoring a benefit program Thursday evening, at which two films, "Captain Klein's Adventures in the Far North" and "The Wild Heart of Africa" will be given. The benefit program is being given in the Westminster school auditorium and starts at 7:30 o'clock. Adventure in the far north and experiences in the African jungle will be shown in contrast.

The films are being presented by R. E. Smith, a motion picture director.

STARS OF "THE CHEAT"

Irving Pichel and Tallulah Bankhead, who have the leading roles in the famous stage play "The Cheat" which opens an engagement today at the Fox West Coast theater.

"CHEAT" OPENS AT WEST COAST THEATER TODAY

"The Cheat," Paramount's new modern dialogue edition of Hector Turnbull's famous story of silent days, with Tallulah Bankhead and Irving Pichel in the roles originally done by Fanny Ward and Sessue Hayakawa, is entertainment of the type that will satisfy the most voracious type of excitement cravers. The play opened today at the Fox West Coast theater.

Miss Bankhead, who has made personal triumphs of her previous American photoplay opportunities has a more dramatic and suspenseful story in "The Cheat," and her supporting cast is adequate to an exacting detail.

The story is of a woman who allows a flirtation and smiling debts to draw her into an intrigue away from her husband. When she balks on the brink of fulfilling a promise to a man of wealth whose code of honor has been perverted by life in the Orient, she is branded with the symbol this chap uses to identify women of conquest. The injured lady shoots him, not mortally, and in consequence she and the husband, eager to shield her reputation, are compelled to air the entire affair publicly in court.

Harvey Stephens, Ann Andrews, Robert Strange, Jay Fasset, William Ingersoll and Hanaki Yoshikawa have supporting roles.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Dec. 9.—Sunday evening services were dismissed at the Midway City Nazarene church in the interest of the John Brown evangelistic meetings which are starting their last week at Garden Grove, and a large delegation attended the meetings from here. The morning service at the local church was devoted to the Universal Bible Sunday topic.

"SURRENDER" ENDS BROADWAY SHOWING

Warner Baxter is said to rise to new dramatic heights in "Surrender," the dynamic and romantic Fox picture now playing at the Fox Broadway theater. He appears in the role of a French prisoner in a German war camp, where he meets and falls in love with a beautiful Prussian girl of titled lineage.

The beautiful and fascinating Lella Hyams enacts the role of the girl who struggles between the fires of love and flames of hate and who eventually surrenders to romance.

"Surrender," which is based on "Axelle," Pierre Benoit's successful novel, it not a war picture, the war serving merely as a background for the unfolding of the tensely dramatic plot. It was prepared for the screen by S. N. Behrman and Sonya Levien.

Supporting the principals is a cast that includes such well known personalities of the stage and screen as Ralph Bellamy, William Pawley, Alexander Kirkland, Howard Phillips, Bert Hanlon, C. Aubrey Smith, Bodil Rossing and George Andre Beranger, in addition to more than 1000 extras.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

Poor Clowny soon ran out of breath. Said he, "I'll blow myself to death if I don't let this horn alone. It's mighty hard to blow." And then another Tiny said, "You bet it is! Your cheeks are red. But, anyway, we thank you 'cause you put on quite a show."

The bunch then heard a sudden blast and Scouty shouted, "Kindly cast your eyes on little Coppy. He is booming on the drum. He's just like lots of little boys. He loves to make a lot of noise. This time he's absolutely sure that he is making some."

The boom, boom, boom rang through the air. Then Carpy shouted, "I don't care for this poor type of music. It will please me if you'll stop." "And so will we," the others cried. So Coppy very sadly sighed and said, "You don't appreciate. What'er I do goes plop!"

Just then a little dog came near. To Clowny it exclaimed, "Come here. I'm going to put my act on now and you can give me aid. I'll teach you to amuse the crowd and shortly you will feel real proud. My act is very simple and you need not be afraid."

So Clowny ran right up to him and said, "I'm always right in trim to lend a hand to anyone. What are we going to do?" "We're going to juggle," said the pup. "Stick with it now, and don't give up. You'll master all my Indian clubs before the act is through."

They stood three feet apart or so and Clowny shouted, "Well, let's go!" The Indian clubs sailed through the air and Clowny grabbed them quick. He tossed them back. The dog yelled, "Great! Now keep it up! Don't hesitate! The other Tinymites are thrilled. No doubt they think you're slick!"

Strange Stories of Soviet Stage Stars

By RUTH KENNEL

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R.

IF you happen to be in Moscow, and drop into a theater to pass away an evening, you are rather likely to witness a performance of a play about America, called "A Million Anthonys."

This play—like most of the others now presented on the Russian stage—is packed with government propaganda from start to finish. If it presents a picture of America that no American would quite recognize, that makes no difference. The Russian audience eats it up, and it helps—presumably—to make Communist doctrines popular.

Here is what "A Million Anthonys" is like. The chief woman character is Mag, an American woman of the streets. She is the sweetheart of a bandit who has been condemned to death for murder. While he is in the death house awaiting execution, this bandit summons a priest, one Father Anthony, and when the priest comes to visit him the bandit gets him drunk on champagne, changes clothes with him and escapes, leaving the priest to be executed for murder.

Just how the condemned murderer gets possession of all this champagne while in the death house is not quite clear; but anyway—

The escaped bandit rejoins Mag, his sweetheart, and, parading as Father Anthony, makes her a miracle worker in his church. He rises in his new job, and presently he is elected cardinal.

By this time he begins to fear that Mag may betray him, so he has her murdered and thus safeguards the secret of his past. Then he buys up sufficient votes to elect himself pope—and the final curtain comes down.

THE story of this play gives a revealing side-light on conditions in the Soviet theater today. Actors and actresses are like everyone else in Russia—they have to put over the gospel of Communism unceasingly, and it rolls over the footlights of every theater in Russia.

Actors, like other workers in the Soviet Union, are closely organized politically, as well as socially and professionally. They are expected to live in community houses provided by their theater, like one big family.

They have their labor union, to which everyone connected with the theater belongs—musicians, stage hands, doormen, janitors, scrub women, as well as directors and actors. They must attend its meetings and devote part of their free time to "social work," which may mean anything from being mobilized to help in the spring sowing on a collective farm to giving a benefit performance to finance the building of a new airplane.

During the summer season, Moscow and Leningrad companies are sent to the "sticks" to play in city and village theaters and at collective and state farms.

They have their club with its political courses, Lenin corner, Red Cross and chemical divisions and target practice; closed co-operative stores and special dining rooms. Their food cards grade them below factory workers in the amount of rations they can buy.

Each actor, like everyone else, under the new Soviet calendar of uninterrupted work, has every fifth day off. Actors also vote as a group in their union, electing a deputy to the city Soviet, and they march on holidays carrying red banners.

LIKE other workers, they are employees of the state. The government owns and controls the theaters, not only physically, but mentally and artistically, through the Commissariat of Education.

Klavdia Michaelovna is one of the most popular actresses in Moscow, adored by thousands who weep unrestrainedly when she plays in her highly emotional roles. Yet compared with a popular Broadway actress her salary of 215 rubles ($107) a month and her simple scale of living might seem pathetic if one did not know how content she is.

Klavdia Michaelovna comes of a Ukrainian peasant family and learned Russian from her playmates only after she was grown. One day she surprised her family by suddenly beginning to speak in Russian, like a child learning to talk.

When she was 17, tragedy came. She loved a handsome visitor from the city. Alone, she struggled among strangers to support herself and the baby.

She learned typing and stenography, but always dreamed of being an actress. She studied at odd moments, came to Moscow and was admitted to the dramatic school of the Maly Theater, the oldest in Moscow, and like the Art Theater, dear to the hearts of Russians.

One night a leading actress of the Maly fell ill, there was a hurried try-out in the dramatic school and Klavdia Michaelovna was chosen for the role—such opportunity being also part of the Soviet system.

THAT night of her first appearance, the lover who had abandoned her several years before in the Ukrainian village was in the audience. After the play he sought her out and asked her to marry him. She refused.

It was in another theater, named Studio of the Maly Theater, in a building which in czarist days was the home of the famous Chauve Souris, that I first saw Klavdia Michaelovna.

Strangely enough, it was not a new Soviet play about revolution, civil war or the Five-Year Plan, but an old melodrama by Ostrovsky, called "Blamed Though Blameless."

The plot was a story which many have lived, even Klavdia Michaelovna. To the few in the audience who knew her life, she was living it again on the stage as she went through her part.

Her part was that of a provincial actress who had been seduced in girlhood and abandoned with her baby. Returning to her home city after a long absence, as a famous actress, she recognizes her old lover in one of the boxes on her triumphant opening night. After the play he goes to her dressing room, offers marriage and is scornfully refused.

The Studio of the Maly Theater was packed the night I saw Klavdia Michaelovna play, and the air was stifling. The audience did not notice the discomforts. They wept luxuriously, giving full vent to the at present somewhat stifled romantic temperament of their race.

WHEN the curtain fell on the last act, scarcely anyone left. They crowded down the aisles close to the stage, clapping their hands and calling her name. Two youths, still wiping their eyes and blowing their noses, stretched out their hands to her across the footlights.

She took the ovation with a weary smile, slightly bending her figure, trim and round in the quaint old gown. Her face, almost without makeup, was pale after the strenuous emotional scene of the last act; she seemed hardly conscious of her admirers.

It was her farewell appearance before the Moscow theatrical season closed, and her company would be sent to the Ural Mountains, on the border of Siberia, for the summer.

On a warm May day, I went to see her. Tender green leaves were springing from the bare branches on the boulevard and in the courtyard of her home. Her room was in a large, two-story building of crumbling plaster, located on a side street—like other Moscow tenements where eight families live in an apartment occupied by one family before. I found her name on the list of eight posted on the door in the vestibule, and written after it: "Three rings."

Three rings of the bell brought her, and she led me through a dark, smelly corridor into her own room. It was large and cozily furnished, with a piano, a large table in the center under a big pink lampshade, a sideboard, a dressing table, a wide couch and a cot behind a screen, and a washstand behind another screen. The walls were covered with photographs of the actress and her company in various plays.

HER large, brilliant, gray eyes very friendly, Klavdia Michaelovna smiled warmly. Her reddish hair, parted in the middle, was drawn back smoothly from her forehead and caught in short curls at her neck. She wore a white cotton blouse and a full, dark skirt of medium length.

"I am leaving in a few days for the north," she sighed. "I am running away from the spring."

And then with touching Russian hospitality, she asked, "Have you found a room yet? You are welcome to stay here while I am away. There will be only my sister, Masha, and my little girl, Valka, and they are both quiet and nice. You and Masha can sleep on the couch and Valka will soon be going to the Pioneer camp for the summer."

"I hardly ever see Valka," she complained. "Children these days grow up so soon and know so much more than we did. Already she is attending meetings, making speeches and doing all sorts of social work. In a way, it is sad—they have no childhood. . . ."

Masha, the younger sister, put her head through the casement window from the courtyard, called a merry greeting and climbed over the sill. She had a shock of curly, golden hair, but in spite of her eager expression, she looked a little tired for one so young.

"She is studying in dramatic school," explained Klavdia.

"And some day I shall be a great actress like my sister," laughed Masha.

KLAVDIA MICHAEOVNA grew enthusiastic when she talked of her profession. She said she loved the Studio, and nothing could induce her to play elsewhere, except in summer.

"My salary is quite enough for my needs. What would I do with more money? There are so few things to buy these days. I pay 40 rubles for this room, and we have no maid, for servants are getting scarce, now that women are going more into factories."

"Each of the tenants here takes turns cleaning the kitchen and corridor, and we do our own room. There is no bathroom in this apartment, but there is a very good banya (public steam bath) in our neighborhood. You must come along with Masha and me sometime."

Going to the banya is not only a means of keeping clean, in lieu of private baths in Moscow, but it is a social pastime as well.

The actress talked of her work, of how the political and social importance of her profession had increased since the Revolution.

"Seriously, we have to study political economy in order to do justice to our parts," she said.

"Blamed Though Blameless" is her favorite role, but is one of the few pre-revolutionary pieces in the theater's repertoire.

SHE receives much adulation from the Moscow public.

"Almost every night a voice I recognize telephones after I come home from the theater," she said. "I put the receiver to my ear and hear the sweet notes of a violin. For a few moments the music sighs and sobs, a soft voice sings 'Quiet night,' and a receiver clicks in the distance."

As a rule, opera singers and ballet dancers get higher salaries than actors. The government pays greatest honor to the ballet, for this is its home, and it still reigns supreme, despite its fantasy and czarist splendor.

Semionova, the leading ballerina at the Bolshoi Opera House, lives at the Grand Hotel on a scale equal to foreigners. She is only 22, a slim blond with a sweet face and a shy, girlish manner.

But she is officially favored as the greatest ballet dancer of the day, and on the magnificent stage of the red and gold theater, she whirls and leaps on her toes like a living flame.

Then she runs off to the left, bowing low as she passes the government box, kept in almost complete darkness, so that spectators in the orchestra seats can barely make out the well-known figures of Soviet leaders, such as Voroshilov, the Red Army commander, and Molotov, premier of the Soviet Union. On nights when Semionova dances in "Comedians," latest of the new school ballets, or another of her popular roles, it is possible to glimpse even Stalin himself in the deep shadows of the box.

Klavdia Michaelovna does not, perhaps, have such distinguished spectators in her audiences. She plays for the masses.

SAINT CLASS B SQUAD

LOSES BY ONE POINT

Clyde Patton's Saint Class B

cagemen ushered in their 1931-32

cage season by losing a hard fought see-saw affair to Brea-Olinda's

"middle" cesaaba toppers,

22-21. Mentor Patton employed four entirely different lineups, each equaling the route of a full quarter.

The first five, which was made up of Denie and Quon, forwards;

Preston and Clark, guards; and

Acker, center, drew first blood from the Wildcat cagers only to have the count evened up at a moment later. At quarter time the score stood 7-2 with the Saints on top. However, the next two combinations were unable to find the mesh more than once so at the end of the third period the Santa Anans were trailing, 7-15.

The fourth period found Larry

Taylor and "Fet" Welmer, Saint regulars, hitting the hoop from all angles of the court to bring the score one point behind their opponents and then pass them, only to lose by one point.

MR. MELLON SUGGESTS

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has submitted his recommendations to Congress. The main part of these recommendations probably appears in tonight's paper.

It is not what one would call thrilling or inspiring reading. They are the cold hard facts which are presented, but they are facts which every person should be familiar with, so that he may be ready to meet the conditions which confront us.

To meet the deficit that is before the government, Mr. Mellon suggests various forms of increased taxation. He proposes to go back and resurrect the rates on incomes that were in vogue in former years, and he is adding a few of his own.

It is easy to criticize the suggestions which Mr. Mellon makes, and yet it is probable that even the most severe critic of Mr. Mellon's suggestions, if he were in the position which Mr. Mellon occupies, would make suggestions not very far different than Mr. Mellon has done.

It is probable, to be sure, that Mr. Mellon's aim is to spread the raising of taxes over as large a number of people as possible, and get more from the ordinary individual, while some others would endeavor to relieve the ordinary individual, as far as possible, and add to the percentage in the higher brackets, particularly for those whose incomes exceed half a million dollars per year.

On the theory that it is what a man has left, and not the amount he pays for taxes, which determines the question of the fairness, it is entirely possible that a great deal higher rate than 40 per cent should be put in operation as the income of the taxpayer passes the $500,000 mark; though the one who is proposing the tax, if he himself is in that capacity, which Mr. Mellon is, finds it very difficult to suggest that he and the others, with whom he is associated, shall pay 50 or 60 or 70 per cent of the amounts that may exceed a million dollars per year.

Mr. Mellon's hostility to the inheritance tax is well known, but he finds it necessary, in his plan, to propose an additional rate on inheritances, in order that the required amount necessary for the government may be raised.

There are certainly some forms of taxes which are suggested in this program over which Congress can well hesitate and consider carefully before putting into operation. Business, that is already at a low ebb, can hardly afford to have its product further handicapped by a sales tax. A tax on bank checks, we would say, is a very questionable procedure at this time.

We would not place any additional burdens upon the people doing business with banks, or who are having their deposits in the banks, and are using checking accounts.

The fact that Mr. Mellon has made these suggestions does not mean that they are going to be enacted by congress. The truth is, with the present complexion of both the House and Senate, the fact that Mr. Mellon makes a suggestion is somewhat of a handicap to the suggestion being carried out.

BRIDGE AND OTHER PROBLEMS

The bridge contest of the ages is on. It is impossible to gauge the interest in the contest. Apparently the extent and the intensity of interest is a phenomena which challenges powers of interpretation. In every community there are undoubtedly groups who have developed a passion for Contract bridge, playing at all hours of the day and night and as long as possible. There are many other people with whom Contract bridge is one of those universal interests, like football and the weather, which affords a pleasant point of contact between people and therein lies their chief interest in the game.

It is absurd, and even immoral, in the face of one of the most unhappy crises which this country has ever met, to be obsessed with Contract bridge. There are vital problems which should command attention. Yet the very depth of importance on these matters somewhat restrains men and women from discussion. People arrive at convictions, and argument with a neighbor or friend accomplishes little.

Possibly this is because we have so little respect for the opinions of others—and that is Democracy. What Bill Jones thinks about disarmament or unemployment insurance or a method for immediate relief is not regarded by John Smith as any better than his own opinion, and they may become enemies over the discussion, but seldom is the opinion of one or the other changed.

In the matter of bridge both Bill Jones and John Smith are willing to concede to authoritative opinion—to the judgment of the man or woman who has made a study of the matter. But in international affairs and economics there is less humility and little respect for the opinion of the man, the college professor, the economist who may have devoted years of his life to the study of certain questions. Is this difference in attitude because Bill Jones and John Smith don't even know how little they know on these questions whereas in Contract bridge they do have this awareness of the complexity of the subject and are willing to make concessions to the authority and to study the question and weigh opinions?

Some people can discuss delightfully and arrive somewhere, either in clarifying their own thought, in evolving new ones, or convincing one or the other. The incident has been told of at least two friends, and one husband and wife, who in the progress of their discussion reversed their opinion, so that at the end of the discussion they were on opposite sides from which they started.

So often discussion only reveals the mental limitations and prejudices of friends and acquaintances that one shrinks from it, and, because one loves one's friends and knows that sooner or later by reading and thinking, the right will triumph if it is right, one discusses football and Contract and the weather. Some people are actually taking Contract as seriously as the publicity on this Lenz-Jacoby-Culbertson contest would indicate. Most people still hold it in reserve as a social grace, an easy point of contact with their fellows.

The attitude toward this links up with the importunities for a temperate life. Too much bridge, too much dancing, too much motoring, too much eating, too much of anything constitutes intemperance.

The intemperate person has not the proper viewpoint of society or his place in society. If he is intemperate in his amusements, he is making life more difficult for some other individual because of his indifference. On the other hand, periods of relaxation are necessary for the most effective activity of the earnest individual. And above all, he cannot afford to lose contact with his fellow men and women.

THE TAIL WAGGING THE DOG

A football game was played in Boston it seems the other day for charity. $75,000 was taken in for tickets. The charity, which was supposed to be helped, received nothing, because according to the manner in which the whole program was conducted, the management came out with a $21,000 deficit.

It was so simple to make a deficit with $75,000 income from the game. All they had to do was to pay $30,000 to each of the two teams, $18,000 for rental for fields to play on, and $18,000 for advertising. There you have the $21,000 deficit. Isn't it simple?

There is to be a game in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena on January 1st. According to the price of tickets, as printed on the slip that has come to our desk, the amounts are $5.00 and $6.00 for a single admission. It is expected that the amphitheater will be entirely filled—every seat will be taken. This would mean an income of $375,000 to $400,000.

We understand that some of this money is to be given to charity. We wonder on what kind of a plan; and how much the needy will receive from it.

We are interested in football. We are interested in all sports, but it does seem sometimes that the colleges and universities have reached the conclusion that the football game is the objective—that winning is the aim—and they have entirely forgotten the idea that the institution itself, together with all athletic and recreational purposes, is organized to produce men.

Man is the end, and he is the object. It is for his mental, physical and moral development that the first money was ever contributed to the founding of any of these institutions. In one of them the other day, a boy was suspected of getting the facts concerning the plays and then furnishing them to an opponent's school. He was one of the players on the team.

Because of this suspicion, he was taken from the team, and from the game, isolated, made a prisoner for a week or so, watched, and then after the game was played, received an apology. This really passes comprehension when you think of the purposes of that institution. This boy was worth more than the winning of that game. If he is a boy of refined sensibilities, it will take him a long time to recover from such an experience, if he ever does.

If the good of the boy had been uppermost in the minds of those in control, they would have undoubtedly said, if they had such suspicions, "The boy is worth more than that game. We can afford to lose the game, but we cannot afford to lose the boy. Let us watch and wait. Let us observe and be careful." If the boy had been guilty they would have lost the game, probably. But they would have lost the game in an attempt to fulfill the purposes for which the game itself was organized, namely the boy.

And if they had found their suspicions ill founded, which they did, they would have exercised the principle of justice and fairness, preserved the boy and gained the lesser objective as well, namely, the winning of the game.

What is needed in some of these institutions is some straight thinking, so that the incidentals and methods used for the development of men shall not be mistaken as the objects themselves. The students in our colleges and universities are the great institutions. Football, baseball, the class room, the professors, the buildings themselves, exist for the young men. The young men do not exist for football.

CRIMINAL CURIOSITY

The scientist's task I have praised
Since I learned how to handle a pen,
I constantly grow more amazed
At the gifts he confers upon men.
He abolishes distance on land and on sea,
He bestows upon me and my neighbor
Machines which will presently render us free
From all manner of grueling labor.

But the fellow is never content:
While he still has a vestige of doubt
We find him eternally bent
Upon learning what life is about
He seeks to make guess and reality fit,
He dwells in a realm of pure wonder,
And it's perfectly clear that he never will quit
Till he's blasted the atom asunder.

Though little of science I know
It seems to be safe to assume
That the world into fragments will blow
If ever the atom goes "boom!"
You and I, in small fragments, will fly into space
In the ten-millionth part of a minute,
If the atom, now pent in a fracture-proof case,
Releases the power that's in it.
The scientist's aim may be high,
He constantly seeks to be shown;
No doubt he'd contentedly die
If he knew all there is to be known.
But, pleased with the life that I live on this sphere,
I am not so extremely aspiring.
And although the scientist's work I revere
I think he's too doggedly inquiring.

Uncommon Sense

THE TEST OF TROUBLE

In a time when money and jobs both become scarce, you begin to find out what your friends and neighbors are really like.

I once went on an excursion with a number of people who, up to that time, I had admired and esteemed.
The boat which carried us sprang a leak, and we were compelled to land at night on an island where there was no shelter.
It rained, as it usually does in such cases. We were shut out from the shore by a thick fog. There were few passing boats. We remained there, suppleless, cold, and miserable till morning, when the fog lifted and we were able to get assistance by waving to people on the mainland.

About five of the people marooned with me—there were twenty in all—kept cheerful, and did their best to keep the others in the same mood. The rest bewailed their fate, insisted they were going to "catch the fault of cold," and berated those of their friends who had asked them to come along on the excursion.

There was never a moment that we were in any danger. The lack of food overnight was undoubtedly good for those who had eaten too much of the picnic fare.
The rain, while it was wet and uncomfortable, didn't give anybody colds or threaten them with pneumonia.
Most of us had been twice as wet in jaunts through the woods. But one would have thought from the moaning and sullen demeanor of the majority that they had been lured, innocents that they were, to this spot in order to give them pneumonia.

Doubtless the reader has had similar experiences.
The ability to stand up under trouble is the real test of a man or a woman.

One would think, seeing that there is so much trouble in the world, and always has been, that people would be used to it by this time, and put up with it as a necessary, though unpleasant part of existence. But this does not seem to be the case.

The people I have heard making the loudest lamentations about the late depression are those who have never needed to change their standard of living.

They complain because they are not going to have as much money as they expected to make.

They haven't the stamina to stand up under troubles which to the less fortunate would be no troubles at all.
But everywhere you meet hard hit men and women who are still going serenely and cheerfully about whatever business they may have left to do.

These are the people who ought to be in the majority.
It is a pity they are not.
If they were, perhaps there wouldn't be any depressions, for it was partly the fault of those who tried to get too big a slice of prosperity that the trouble came.

Little Benny's
Note Book
by Lee Pape

Our colored laundry lady telephoned to me that she was too sick to come around and get the laundry but not too sick to wash it anybody brought it around to her, so she rolled it all up in a bundle and told me to take it around, me saying, Well aw G, ma, heck, I can't go through the street carrying that, no sir, G winnicks, how do you think I'd look?

I think you'd look like a boy carrying laundry, but all right, I'll put it in the old straw suitcase for you if it will make you feel any better, my goodness, ma said.

Which she did, and I started to carry it around to the colored laundry lady's house, and some of the fellows was playing down at the corner, Puda Simkins saying, G, look whose coming with a suitcase, are you going away, Benny?

No, I said, and Glasses Magee said, Then what are you doing with a suitcase?

O, why, yes, sure I'm going away, but I mean not forever. I mean I'm coming right back, that's what I mean, I said.

Where you going? Shorty Judge said, and I said, O, just to that place again.

Being all I could think of to say, and Skinny Martin said, What place?

Where the cows are, I said, and I kept on going, and just then the suitcase came undid on account of having a bum lock, and all the laundry spilled out on the payment, and the fellows all started to jump around laughing and yelling, saying, O, yes, you're going away all right, look whose going away, watch out the cows don't chew up the laundry, no checkie no shertee, hay Benny, when you coming around to do our washing?

And different things like that, and I said, O, is that so, well if you want to know something let me tell you I'm going to get a dime for going this errand and if any of you guys expect anything out of it you better watch your step.
Being the best idea I had yet, and I quick kept on going while they were still wondering.

In the Long Ago

14 Years Ago Today

DECEMBER 9, 1917

Formal organization of the county farm bureau is to be effected December 15, when the 12 or 13 bureaus of the county will have a meeting.

John A. McFadden, insurance agent, has been appointed chairman of the Orange county committee to be organized for conducting the campaign for the sale of thrift stamps and certificates.

George McPhee, county sealer of weights and measures, has been appointed as federal food agent for Orange county, with authority and duty delegated to him to enforce food conservation regulations as set down by the federal government.

"We are ready to start building operations on a big shipbuilding plant at Newport Beach the minute we are given assurance that a channel 20 feet deep will be provided," declared S. H. Duncan of Los Angeles yesterday.

Questionnaires will be mailed by the local exemption board commencing Monday of next week.

C. G. Twist, John Cubbon, H. Y. Evans, Marshall Keller and Harry Dale have been appointed members of a committee to perfect an organization planned by men of the Episcopal church.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF I WERE DICTATOR

I do not believe in dictatorships.

Dictatorship is better than democracy for a short-time program.

Democracy is better than dictatorship for a long-time program.

It is, however, a powerful clarifier of one's thinking to try to determine what one would do if suddenly thrust into the position of dictator.

Here is one thing I would do: I would start my thinking about the current economic situation by rehearsing what I have said so many times from so many angles in these articles, namely, that we cannot prevent an industrial system like ours, geared as it is to an enormous output, from back-firing on us unless, through high wages, short hours, and low prices, we build up an adequate buying power among the masses.

I would make a survey of the business and industrial leadership of the nation to determine how many heads of great enterprises agreed to and acted on this principle.

I should probably find, as a research in 1929 found, that about one-fifth of the economic enterprise of the United States acts upon this principle, with the remaining four-fifths still laboring under the delusion that low wages, long hours, and low prices make for profits.

I should then call a great congress of the leaders of the nation's great industries and say to them something like the following:

"I am imposing upon the incomes of you and your corporations an unprecedentedly high tax. I shall not insult your intelligence by trying to prove to you that the government needs all the money that this tax will produce. It does not. My colleagues and I would have a difficult time trying to find wise ways of spending the money this tax will produce. I hope that you will do your best to prevent me and my government from getting more from this tax than an intelligently economical governmental program needs. I hope you will deliberately trick the government out of a large part of this tax by distributing profits through higher wages, shorter hours, and lower prices. In short, this is not a tax for needed revenue, but a club to enforce far-sighted business policy."

If the industrial captains took my hint, they would discover, I think, that their attempt to cheat the government had resulted not in reducing their income but in increasing their income, for high wages, short hours, and low prices would mean that the masses would have money with which to buy and leisure in which to enjoy an unprecedented amount of goods and services. Business would boom and, although the profit per article would be low, the gross profit would be great.

And then, with the lesson learned, I would reduce the tax as drastically as I had raised it. (Copyright, 1931, McClure Newspaper Synd.)

FEEDING HIMSELF

A child's first efforts at feeding himself are more than awkward. His hand shakes, the spoon turns over, the cereal drips from all sides. His face, his hands, his bib, the surrounding space, is smeared with the milky, sticky mess.
If you are unwise you will exclaim in distress you will look astonished and angry and all fussed up. You will snatch up the baby, scolding as you go, strip off his dress, wash his face and hands, none too gently, and proceed to feed him yourself. That is what unwise people always do.

But if you know your job you won't do anything like that. You provide the beginner with a lopsided spoon, a rather deep-sided saucer, an oilcloth table cover, a substantial washable bib, and wish him good luck. Maybe you sit by and look pleased at every wavering attempt. Certainly you do not hurry him or worry him until he indicates that he has had enough work for this time.

Then, and only then, do you wash him and finish feeding him with the same spoon from the same dish. He needs to feel that he has accomplished something in his struggle for self help. He needs this so much that you will pay any price in patience and self-control to allow him to acquire it.

I have seen children of three and four years of age sucking their morning milk from a baby bottle. I have seen their mothers sitting by their sides feeding them with what grace they could muster. All because they could not stand by when the child indicated his readiness to help himself and allow him to do so.

HINDENBURG AT CAMBRAI

On Dec. 9, 1917, General von Hindenburg joined General von Ludendorff in directing operations at Cambrai.

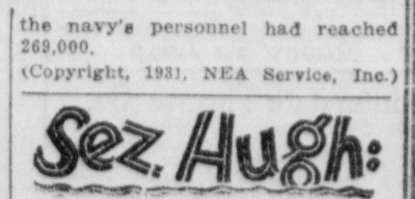

Fighting at Cambrai went into its seventeenth consecutive day on this date.

In the Verdun region the French stopped the German thrust in the direction of Bezevaux.

In the Italian campaign the Asiago battle was suspended by the Teutons who were checked at positions guarding the Franelia and Gadenia Passes.

The Russian government issued a proclamation to the Russian nation that "Kaledine and Korniloff, assisted by the Imperialists and Constitutional Democrats, have raised a revolt and declared war in the Don region against the people and the revolution."
